New Chapter 766 law would tighten eligibility

By Lisa Boudreau

Since 1974, when Chapter 766 legislation was implemented, the number of students receiving special education services in Massachusetts has steadily increased. Gov. Weld has called for revisions in eligibility requirements that would bring the commonwealth in line with other states.

Andover has seen a decline in the number of special-education students during the last five years, according to Mary French, director of pupil personnel, who oversees special education in Andover's public schools.

"The numbers have been gradually declining since 1986," when 14.6 percent of the town's

Selectmen reject police/town manager agreement

By Don Staruk

Thomas Siopes, police patrolmen's union president, backed by eight or nine other patrolmen, Monday night confronted the Board of Selectmen for allegedly rejecting the latest contract agreement negotiated with the town manager last month.

"Do we have a tentative agreement or don't we?" Officer Siopes asked selectmen.

The board directed Mr. Stapczynski, town manager, to respond.

"I think the answer is pretty clear we don't have a tentative agreement," Mr.

Stapczynski said.

"You're renegeing on your agreement?" Officer Siopes clarified.

"I'm saying we're back to the table," Mr. Stapczynski said.

Officer Siopes asked selectmen to respond to rumors that the selectmen had voted down the latest agreement during an executive session March 30. Mr. Siopes claims such a vote would violate the open meeting law, and that selectmen have no authority under the town charter to accept or reject any bargaining

Addison wins three awards

By Lisa Boudreau

The Addison Gallery of American Art at Phillips Academy has won three major national awards. They are for Sally Abugov's design work on two exhibit catalogs and one exhibit invitation.

Ms. Abugov, of 118 Andover St., has worked in the school's publications department for the past five years. Her catalog cover of the museum's A Matter of Conscience, documenting several conscientious objectors of the Vietnam War, won first place in the American Association of Museums publications design competition.

"I was very surprised I won. I didn't even know the work had been submitted," she said.

Ms. Abugov featured one of the photographs for the catalog cover. It is of an objector holding his dog tags and medals in one hand and a photograph of himself as a young military officer in the other.

Charges brought in dog killing

By Don Staruk

Charges have been filed in Lawrence District Court against a Salem Street man for shooting and killing a neighbor's dog, allegedly while the animal was tied up, after the dog attacked and killed several of his chickens earlier this month.

The incident occurred Saturday, April 4. A charge of cruelty to animals was filed by Andover police and a hearing date has been set for Wednesday, May 13. Additional charges for discharging a firearm in town may also be filed. Leash law and nuisance charges were filed against the owner of the dead dog and another dog allegedly involved.

According to Wayne Nader, Andover's animal control officer, police reports and witnesses, a young woman bicyclist first noticed the two dogs chasing a number of chickens near a house at 266 Salem St. at about 6 p.m. that Saturday. The young woman alerted Francis Ferris Jr., the home owner, of the situation.

Mr. Ferris saw chickens in his yard and everywhere else, but the dogs had gone back across the road to the property of Paula

Contractors work to improve air quality of Memorial Hall Library

By Lisa Boudreau

It will cost the town at least $1,620 to improve the air quality at Memorial Hall Library. During the past few weeks, Fred Jaeschke, director of the town's Municipal Maintenance department, hired a private contractor to work on the library's ventilation system and conduct an air quality test and measure the amount of carbon dioxide in the building's air.

"We have a firm on contract to handle the (town buildings') ventilation systems. We don't have the expertise on our staff to balance the air flow properly," he said.

Mr. Jaeschke said $1,620 is the bill for three days of work. The cost could go up if more ventilation adjusting is needed.

The question of air quality at the library was first brought to town officials' attention last month when a library employee sent a written complaint to Health Director Everett Penney.

"She complained about the dryness of the air. She said she had irritated eyes, a dry throat and various other upper-respiratory distress symptoms," he said.

Mr. Penney said he inspected the library after receiving the complaint and found that the building was dry, but did not find other health problems.

When the contractor was called in to investigate the ventilation system, it found a defective air duct. The duct was repaired and more outside air was mixed with recirculated air, said Mr. Jaeschke.

The area affected by the defective air duct was the interlibrary loan office, which is occupied by library administrators and is not used by the general public, said Nancy Jacobson, director of the library.

According to Mr. Jaeschke, Ms. Jacobson had originally wanted to install a humidifying system throughout the library, but that would have cost tens of thousands of dollars.

The library "was dry, but no more than the schools or the town office building," Mr. Jaeschke said.

"None of those buildings have humidifiers," he added.

The results of the air quality tests are not yet available, Ms. Jacobson said. She said there is some noticeable difference in the amount of fresh air in the building since the work began, but the contractors are still working to balance the air handling system.

If you are separated from your husband and are concerned that your husband may intend to fight you for custody of your children, you may be hesitant to date, socialize or pursue a career because you are afraid you will lose your children if you do. ## NEWS IN BRIEF

Ellen Murphy runs for state rep.

Andover Democrat Ellen T. Murphy of 28 Johnson Road is submitted her nomination papers Monday to enable her to run for state representative in the 17th Essex District, which includes Andover and portions of Lawrence.

Ms. Murphy is a longtime Andover resident and has been active in Democratic politics in the area for many years. She is member of the Andover Democratic Town Committee, of which she was treasurer for three years.

Ms. Murphy has worked as a real estate development executive in the area. She is currently earning her master's degree in business administration from the University of Virginia's Darden Graduate School of Business. She will be awarded her M.B.A. degree in May. She is also a graduate of Simmons College, where she majored in international relations.

Ms. Murphy is the daughter of Theresa Gaffny Murphy and the late Robert J. Murphy, and was raised in Andover and Lawrence.

She looks forward to bringing about change to restore the public's confidence in its elected officials.

"I look forward to having an opportunity to make a difference in government with the tools I have acquired in my business and educational experiences," Ms. Murphy said. "I also feel that our area needs to have continued female representation in the Statehouse. With Senator McGovern choosing not to run for re-election, I would be the only female voice from the Lawrence-Andover area."

She plans to officially announce her candidacy within the next few weeks.

Anthony Silva Jr. is running, too

Anthony R. Silva Jr. of 49 Juniper Road is running for the state representative seat currently held by Gary Coon, R-Andover. Mr. Silva, 36, is a Democrat. He is married to Mary Ellen Conte Silva, a teacher at Hennessey School in Lawrence. They have two children; Anthony, 8, and Alyssa, 16 months.

Mr. Silva has been owner and manager of Lightship Liquors, 94 So. Union St., Lawrence, since 1986.

He received his bachelor of arts degree in political science and Ameri-

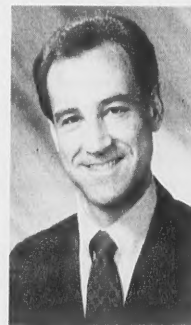

The Andover Bicycling Committee and Department of Community Services will offer bicycle safety activities Saturday, May 2, from 9 to 11 a.m. to coincide with "Andover Bicycling Awareness Day." Here, Michael, 10, and Melanie Burnett, 7, children of Cathi and Bruce Burnett of Glenmeadow Road, get ready for the event. The highlight will be a bicycle safety skills course. Other activities for all ages include free bicycle safety inspections, bicycle registration, used-bicycle swap, maps of enjoyable bike rides in Andover and a raffle for a specialized micro-light helmet. These events will be co-sponsored by the Cycle Stop in Lawrence, Donut Master and McDonald's. Activities will take place behind Doherty Middle School. In case of rain, the event will be rescheduled. For further information, call Jerry Sabath at 475-1159.

can studies from Merrimack College in North Andover, and was a member of the college varsity basketball team. He graduated Boston State College with a master's degree in education.

Mr. Silva is a Massachusetts certified teacher and guidance counselor.

His experience includes television host on Continental Cable TV-3 (Statehouse Journal) from 1985 to 1986; alderman and director of public property and parks from 1980 to 1985, serving as City Council president during 1985; and working in the special education department of Haverhill public schools from 1979 to 1980.

Anthony R. Silva Jr

Mr. Silva says if elected, "I will continue to own my retail business but will have a manager operate the business while I am representing the people of my district. When you rely on a political salary, difficult issues could compromise your position. Having a business to fall back on benefits the people you serve."

The committee to elect has officially opened. Mark P. Kiley of 278 River Road is treasurer. Tom Cuddy of Lawrence is campaign chairman. The campaign will officially begin with a fund-raiser Tuesday, May 19, at Bishop's Restaurant, Hampshire St., Lawrence, at 6:30 p.m.

AHS bands won't have to disband

By Lisa Boudreau

Andover High School marching band and jazz band members will not have to pay a fee next year to ensure their programs are funded. The School Committee voted unanimously to restore a 4 instrumental music position it had cut from the budget earlier this year.

Following several emotional pleas from band students and parents during the past few months, which included a pledge to pay user fees, the committee said it would find other ways to cut $15,000 from the budget. The 4 cut would reduce a teacher at the elementary level, but because of seniority rights, AHS music teacher Marc Keroack would take over those duties, leaving little or no time to work with high school band students.

Ted Friedenson, of 109 Bellevue Road, a member of both bands, told the committee the music programs at the high school are as important to providing a well-rounded education as the athletic programs.

"While the majority of the students in this town play sports to gain a feeling of accomplishment, I play the sax.... Mr. Keroack (AHS band director) gives me a sense of pride in

"When I say I would pay for the fee, I don't mean my parents would pay it. I mean I would pay the fee."

Ted Friedenson, of 109 Bellevue Road, a member of both bands myself and my school just as a coach does with an athlete," he said.

Mr. Friedenson went on to tell the committee, before it took a vote on the position, that he and the majority of the band members he spoke to would prefer to pay a fee, rather than disband the band.

"When I say I would pay for the fee, I don't mean my parents would pay it. I mean I would pay the fee," he said.

Mark McQuillan, superintendent of schools, offered a few options to the School Committee to cut funds in other areas to provide money for the music position. He suggested the committee eliminate the $8,000 substitute coordinator and rework instructional assistants' job descriptions.

Dr. McQuillan believes because the committee is currently negotiating with the school employees' unions, it could attempt to bargain a reduction in the salary for non-instructional assistants who perform more clerical duties in the schools.

The committee as a whole was not too receptive to either proposal. New member Mary Lyman called to table the vote on his proposal until the committee could further investigate other options. Chairwoman Susan Jenkins suggested the committee vote to restore the position, but wait to vote on the funding mechanism.

"I'm 100 percent behind saving this position. I'd rather see a cut in the computer equipment budget. An investment in human resources is more important than in hardware at this point in time," said committee-member Chris Outwin.

Athlete's Corner coming

By Don Staruk

Athlete's Corner, an athletic footwear and clothing store, will open in the Barnard Building on Main Street in just about two weeks.

"We're looking at May 15," Tom Belhumeur, the store's owner, said Wednesday.

The store is locating on the first floor between Gentry and the former Kitchen Korner, in a space undergoing major renovations including the opening of a new entrance onto Main Street.

Mr. Belhumeur has Athlete's Corner stores in Beverly, Stoneham, Cambridge and Swampscott, and has been looking to locate in Andover for two or three years.

"I think it's a good area," he said.

He was attracted by the emphasis on quality sports in the area, such as soccer and championship high school baseball, and by the markets at Phillips Academy and Merrimack College. But he has been waiting for the right spot.

"If I was going to be there at all, I wanted to be on Main Street," Mr. Belhumeur said.

Athlete's Corner sells shoes for running, walking, tennis, soccer and other sports, fitness clothing and beach wear.

Jack Norton, an employee at one of the other stores, will be brought up to manage the Andover store. Mr. Norton is a top rated master's runner who holds track records for his division. The store will carry a full line of running shoes and gear.

The other 8 or 9 employees Mr. Belhumeur expects to hire will be from the area, he said.

Mr. Belhumeur has not set definite hours yet but would like to open nights and has been talking to other merchants along Main Street about doing so. He is considering opening 10 a.m.-8 p.m. Monday through Friday, 9 a.m.-6 p.m. on Saturday and noon-5 p.m. on Sunday.

"What we stress is service," he said. "When people come into Athlete's Corner, you just see the difference right away."

Mr. Belhumeur said his stores become part of the towns they are in, sponsoring local events and reinvesting advertising dollars into the community.

"We work real tight with the communities," he said.

A grand opening is tentatively scheduled for May 16, but Mr. Belhumeur said it will typically last about two weeks and include radio broadcasts from the store, gorillas, DJ's, free lunch and drawings for free prizes every 20-minutes or so.

"We do a big grand opening," he said. "When we're done after the first two weeks of opening, there's very few people that won't know we're there."

First Federal Savings Bank of Boston opens at 77 Main St.

First Federal Savings Bank of Boston celebrated the grand opening of its newly acquired branch on 77 Main St. during a ribbon-cutting ceremony recently.

William Downs, vice chairman of the Andover Board of Selectmen, and Town Manager Reginald S. Stapczynski were present at the ceremony.

Mr. Stapczynski said, "It is a pleasure to be here at the grand opening today and welcome the First Federal Savings Bank to our downtown. It is significant that a new business is locating in Andover, particularly when there has been so much concern in our community regarding the closing of several businesses in the Central Business District. We are very pleased to have the First Federal Savings Bank in our community."

"It is additionally pleasing to see that they have added Lee Russem to their team of mortgage officers. Mr. Russem was a former chairman of the Andover Center Association and knows the concerns of Andover residents and in particular, Main Street issues. His presence at this branch will add luster to the First Federal Savings Bank and their subsidiary, First Eastern Mortgage Corporation, also located in Andover at Brickstone Square.

Robb J. Osinski, executive vice president of First Federal, thanked those who contributed to making the acquisition and conversion a success. He also noted, "We are proud to be accepted into the fine town of Andover and look forward to serving the banking and mortgage financing needs of the community."

To commemorate the occasion, Mr. Osinski announced that First Federal will offer a special one-year certificate of deposit at an exceptional interest rate for a limited time.

First Federal Savings Bank of Boston, headquartered in Boston, is the parent company of First Eastern Mortgage Corporation, one of the largest one-to-four family residential mortgage lenders in Massachusetts with branch offices in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Maine, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Present at ribbon cutting ceremonies at First Federal Savings Bank were, from left, Larry Keenan, staff accountant; Linda Firth, customer service rep. supervisor; Selectman Bill Downs; Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski; Robb Osinski, executive vice president of the bank; Aileen Auchterlonie, customer service rep.; Gladys Glittings, customer rep. supervisor; John Marocco, customer service rep.; Brett Yannalfo, customer service rep.; Lee Russem, mortgage officer; and David Vitale, mortgage officer.

Barnard Building is getting a new look

By Don Staruk

Renovations being made to the Barnard Building by Family Bank of Haverhill to make the property more marketable have apparently paid off. Athlete's Corner, a sports clothing store chain based in Swampscott, will move into the building next month.

"They expect to be open probably the second week in May," according to Paul Bruk III, of the Bruk Co., the real estate development firm handling the building for the bank.

Family Bank took the building in foreclosure from William Scanlon last year. Rich Baldwin, a vice president of the bank, and Mr. Bruk said he is negotiating with potential tenants for vacant areas on the upper floors. Leasing responsibilities will eventually be turned over to a separate leasing company, according to Mr. Bruk, who said a lot of interest has been shown in the property but it has looked "a bit stark."

ing renovations.

A request to add steel and glass canopies over the main and side entrances of the building was denied by the Board of Selectmen earlier this month. Both state and local historical groups were against the proposed canopies. Mr. Bruk said last week more work is needed on plans for the entrance ways before another proposal can be made to selectmen. Selectmen are the controlling authority for what goes on, or over, the town's public ways, including the sidewalks.

No tenants have been lined up for the spaces below street level, but Mr. Bruk said he is negotiating with potential tenants for vacant areas on the upper floors. Leasing responsibilities will eventually be turned over to a separate leasing company, according to Mr. Bruk, who said a lot of interest has been shown in the property but it has looked "a bit stark."

"We feel confident, after the interior renovations have been done, that the rest of the building, the second and third floors, will be leased up very quickly," Mr. Bruk said. "What we have planned in terms of interior decorations will make a vast improvement to what's here now."

The building already contains Ford's Coffee Shop, Gentry men's wear and Kaleidoscope women's clothing on the first floor, Bella Vista restaurant on the second floor and Kimball Chase Inc. engineering on the third.

McLean Construction, of Nashua, N.H., is doing the renovations, which should be complete by the middle of June.

BUSINESS

Ruben Nieves, at left, is the new president of the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce. Ginny Keaten, right, is the outgoing president. They and 400 others gathered last week at the Andover Marriott for the chamber's annual dinner. Mr. Nieves, of Andover, said to succeed the business group needs its members' full participation. In addition, he said the chamber will take a role in combating some of the social problems in the Merrimack Valley. Edna Greico Thomas of Andover, an active volunteer and leader in health-care issues in the area, was honored with the Ralph B. Wilkinson Good Citizenship Award during the evening. Television reporter Gary Armstrong was the guest speaker. He said even though the city of Lawrence has problems, every time he comes there, he sees new businesses.

Andover Bank lists first-quarter profit

Andover Bancorp Inc. has announced its operating results for the first quarter ended March 31. Net income for the first quarter amounted to $1.5 million or 37 cents per share, compared to a net loss of $3.6 million or 87 cents per share for the same period of 1991.

Bancorp's net interest income for the first quarter of 1992 rose by 18.9 percent to $5.3 million from $4.5 million for the first quarter of 1991 and was 15.6 percent higher than the fourth quarter of 1991. Non-interest expenses declined slightly from the first quarter of 1991 and were down by 11.2 percent from the fourth quarter of 1991.

By March 31, non-accruing loans amounted to $33.4 million, a reduction of $7.7 million or 18.6 percent from $41.1 million at Dec. 31. Other real estate owned or subventively repossessed totaled $29.6 million at quarter-end compared to $28.9 million at Dec. 31. Non-performing assets (including restructured loans) totaled $63.7 million at March 31, down 16.8 percent from $76.6 million at March 31, 1991.

Gerald T. Mulligan, president and chief executive officer, said that "Andover Bancorp's profit for the first quarter of 1992 reflects an improved financial position and bank-wide efforts to return to profitability. We are especially encouraged by progress in reducing the level of non-performing assets and in significantly increasing the net interest margin, while reducing operating expenses."

The Bank has reached agreement with the FDIC and Massachusetts Commissioner of Banks on the principal terms of the previously announced memorandum of understanding. In response to this agreement, the bank is undertaking a number of actions to enhance its operations and lending procedures, many of which are the continuation of measures already begun. The agreement requires the bank to maintain a minimum Tier I leverage capital ratio of at least 6 percent of the bank's total assets. The bank's Tier I leverage capital ratio at March 31, 1992, was 7.4 percent. The agreement also requires the consent of the FDIC and the commissioner prior to the declaration of stockholder dividends. This informal action is the result of the FDIC's regular examination of the bank concluded in July 1991.

Daher's readies for grand opening

By Don Staruk

The grand opening of the new Daher's for Men and Women shoe and clothing store at 89 Main St. is scheduled for next weekend, May 8, 9 and 10, and will include give-aways, raffle prizes, in-store specials, refreshments and special gifts for moms on Mother's Day.

The grand opening is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, 9 a.m.-9 p.m., and Sunday, noon-6 p.m. The store may have a "soft opening" a few days before hand to work out all the bugs, according to John Daher, who owns and operates the shoe store chain with his sister, Joyce Belko.

Company representatives from major vendors such as Nike, Reebok, Birkenstock, Bostonian, Avia and Via Spiga, will be available to answer questions, according to Ms. Belko.

Mr. Daher said the longer hours will be a permanent part of the new store's operations.

"We're going to include nights in our regular business hours," Mr. Daher said. "We want the store to be a more regional store. All our main offices are moving to this location."

The new hours will include staying open until 7 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday, and until 8 p.m. Thursdays. Saturday hours will be 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m., and, after Aug. 15, the store will be open Sundays, noon-6 p.m.

Daher's is opening in Olde

Andover Village where Russem's Ladies Apparel Shop and Samantha's Fine Clothing closed last Christmas. The 27 Main St. location will be completely renovated and will reopen at the end of May as Daher's for Kids, a children's shoe store.

Daher's still operates its original store on Swan Street in Methuen and another store at the Methuen Mall.

The Swan Street store was opened 30 years ago by Mr. Daher's mother and father, Sally and the late Charles Daher. The Andover store was opened nine years ago at 4 Main St. and moved to 27 Main St. a year and a half later. The store's expansion in Andover can be taken as a positive statement about the town, according to Mr. Daher.

"We have a lot of confidence in Andover. It's been a good town for us and we're very happy here," Mr. Daher said.

"The past nine years we've been in downtown Andover five other shoe stores have opened and five other shoe stores have closed," Ms.

Andover Gift Shop moving to Main Street

By Don Staruk

The Andover Gift Shop at 10 Post Office Ave. will move around the corner next month into the former Kitchen Corner location at 4 Main St.

"We're planning on moving in there the weekend after Mother's Day," said Deborah Lane, owner. Mother's Day is Sunday, May 10.

"I'm really excited," Ms. Lane said last week. "It's about the only place I'd be willing to move in town. I've been here for 10 years. The town is filling back up again, thank the Lord."

The new store will be about 800-square feet, 300-square feet more than her current space. Anyone who has been in the gift shop at Christmas, when three people with heavy coats jammed the store, can appreciate the need for more space. The additional room will give Ms. Lane room to spread out, she said.

"It's a good increase. And higher ceilings, which for me is a big plus." Ms. Lane plans to increase the size of her inventory.

"I'm going to get more merchandise," she said.

The gift shop carries pottery, sterling silver jewelry, picture frames, perfume bottles, clocks, cards and more, almost all individually hand-crafted items.

"I try to stay away from anything anyone else has," Ms. Lane said. "It's only things I would like for myself or I would give for gifts."

"I really don't carry anything that is mass produced," except for a line of $6 earrings, she confessed.

People come from California and drive up from Boston to shop in her store, according to Ms. Lane. Other customers come up from New York looking for her.

Ms. Lane had been hesitant to move from her current location for fear of changing something that works, but the Main Street spot is such a good opportunity and so close that she figures her longtime customers will still be able to find her.

"I've thought it through often. I didn't really want to move. However, this is too perfect to pass up," Ms. Lane said.

The gift shop is currently located in space owned by Paul Salafia, of Andover, who has an office over Petro's Seafoods and Deli on Post Office Avenue. The 4 Main St. shop is in the building owned by Buddy Simeone, who operates Simeone Pharmacy-Andover Medical Supply, next door at 2 Main St.

The new space is a little higher in rent, but Ms. Lane said she is happy with the terms of her agreement with Mr. Simeone. She would not elaborate.

Ms. Lane lives on Summer Street with her husband, Robert Lane, son, Robert, 17, and step-son, Greg Laflamme, 13. She also has a daughter, Danielle, 14, who lives in Plaistow, N.H.

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

DRY MOUTH

According to a long-term study by researchers at the National Institute for Dental Research, older people are not prone to decreased salivary gland function (dry mouth) merely as a consequence of their age. When mature adults experience dry mouth, it is more likely to be caused by the medications that they are taking. A recent review points to some 375 medications (including antihistamines, decongestants, and certain antidepressants) which cause saliva production to taper off. Such diseases as Sjogren's Syndrome (common among older people) are also associated with dry mouth. Whatever the cause, this problem should not be ignored. Chronic dry mouth can significantly contribute to the incidence of gum disease and tooth decay.

In these columns, I look forward to bringing you information that is interesting and will help you maintain your oral health. To keep your teeth and gums in the best of shape, it is essential to take the necessary steps to prevent tooth decay and periodontal disease. Together, as a team, we can do it. For complete dental care for all members of your family, please call my office at 475-2431. Located at 296 Lowell St., Rt 133, with easy access off Rt 93, hours are Mon & Thur 10-8, Tues & Fri 8-6, and by appointment. P.S. Dry mouth inhibits the ability of denture wearers to maintain proper adherence of their dentures.

Daher's: 'Buying shoes will be fun again'

Belko said.

The new Daher's store has 5,200 square feet of space compared to 2,200 in the 27 Main St. location. The Swan Street store has 4,800 square feet and the mall store is about 2,900.

The store will expand its line of shoes, outerwear and sportswear, especially along the lines of leather outerwear for women.

Jennifer Hechemy, of Surrey Lane, will be the new manager of Daher's for Men and Women. Ms. Hechemy worked for Daher's while a student at Andover High School, earned a marketing degree at University of Massachusetts-Amherst and was trained in J.C. Penney's management training program. She has been working at the J.C. Penney store at the Pheasant Lane Mall in Nashua, N.H.

Daher's for Kids
Daher's for Kids, with a grand opening set for Sunday,

May 31, is going to be a very unique and new kind of shoe store, according to Mr. Daher, with a play area, videos all over the place and even a diaper changing station.

It's also going to be one of the biggest children's stores around, with 98 percent of the Stride Rite chain in stock, and a place kids will want to come back to, Mr. Daher said.

"Buying shoes will be fun again," he said.

Daher's has rented Old Town Hall for the kids' store grand opening and will have Storybook Theater upstairs. Tickets for the two shows will be available at the store across the street.

Dino Dave, the Stride Rite dinosaur, will also be in town for the grand opening, according to Ms. Belko.

A limited line of the children's stock will be available in the new Daher's store up the street until Daher's for Kids opens at the end of the month.

"Our aim is to provide the utmost in customer service and satisfaction," Ms. Belko said. "That's what we've done for the past 30 years and we hope to do it for another 30 years."

"MORE THAN EVER, YOUR ACCOUNTANT WOULD AGREE WITH ME..."

"A home Equity Creditline is a smart way to borrow. As an accountant (I'm a licensed C.P.A.), I know that a home Equity Creditline lets you take maximum advantage of tax breaks. As a banker (I'm also Chief Financial Officer at Andover Bank), I think you should know that interest on an Andover Bank Equity Creditline, in most cases, is fully tax deductible for loans up to $100,000. (Consult your tax advisor for details.) Better yet, an Andover Bank Equity Creditline has a low rate of interest when compared with ordinary auto, home improvement, or credit card loans.

But best of all, an Andover Bank Equity Creditline is so flexible, you can segment it for different purposes by converting portions of your credit line to a fixed rate during a period of rising interest rates. For example, you may want to segment your variable rate equity loan into two separate fixed rate loans such as a three year loan for your new car and a seven year loan for home improvements.

For more information about the smartest way to borrow in times like these, call or stop by any of Andover Bank's eight convenient Merrimack Valley offices. We're sure you'll agree that at Andover Bank, you're the most important customer we'll ever have."

HELP YOUR BATHROOM SELL YOUR HOME

Very few people will buy a house because they're "blown away" by fantastic bathrooms. Buyers do, however, react to baths that are not well cared for, because these rooms are a reflection of the overall condition of the property.

While your home is on the market, keep each bathroom spotless. Get out the scouring powder, mildew remover, glass and tile cleaner, and your scrub brush. If necessary, recaulk around the tub and shower. A new shower curtain, bath mat, and nice smelling soap can help give the buyer one more positive reason for liking your home and perhaps deciding to buy it!

Many purchasers see plumbing as a potential major expense. Some may get nervous about dripping faucets, loose tiles, running toilets, and peeling paint on the ceilings of the rooms directly underneath them. As part of your premarketing preparations, make sure your plumbing is working properly and that any cosmetic damage caused by former leaks has been repaired.

If there's a move in your future, the real estate specialists at Century 21 Minuteman Realty are ready to serve you. Feel free to visit our office at 2 Elm Square, or phone us at 475-1243.

SCHOOLS

Workshop addresses sexuality

Parent-to-Parent will sponsor a workshop on "Sexual Messages" with Andover's Department of Health Education Tuesday, May 5, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Doherty Middle School media center.

"Society gives children mixed messages about sex from the provocative and exploitive sex in the media to the embarrassed silence of many adults," said Brenda O'Brien, the school system's health education coordinator.

Ms. O'Brien said today's young people are sexually vulnerable: One out of four girls and one out of seven boys is sexually abused by the time they are 18 years of age. One out of 10 adolescent girls becomes pregnant each year (a rate double that of other countries).

Every year one out of seven young people between 15 and 24 contracts a sexually transmitted disease, and adolescents are predicted to be the next high-risk group for infection with HIV, the AIDS virus, Ms. O'Brien said reports show.

"Children need to learn age-appropriate information, attitudes and skills," she said. "As the primary sex educators of their children, parents must maintain a positive dialogue of communication to help children feel confident and reassured as they begin the lifelong process of understanding sexuality."

Tuesday's workshop is designed to present effective ways to enhance communication and review current resources and school-based programs, as well as provide an open forum for discussion.

The workshop will be presented by Ms. O'Brien, Patricia Barrett, Sandra Lunt and Lana Reuss of the Department of Health Education staff.

The workshop is free and open to the public. For more information, call the department at 470-3800, Ext. 368.

Psychotherapists Leon and Barbara Somers of Andover will present a free lecture on "Talking to Your Children about Sex" Monday, May 4, at 11 a.m. They will speak at Northern Essex Community College's Haverhill campus.

The Somerses co-authored a book titled Talking to Your Children About Love and Sex. Their clinic in North Andover specializes in family and sexual therapy.

Sponsored by the college's Behavioral Sciences Club, the lecture will be held in Room 305 of the Classroom Building. Northern Essex is located on Elliott Way, Exit 52 off Route 495.

AHS rehearses musical

The Andover High School Drama Guild will present Lerner and Loewe's My Fair Lady Friday and Saturday, May 8 and 9, at 8 p.m.

The poignant story of the transformation of a lowly flower girl into a society lady by a phonetician is based on George Bernard Shaw's famous play Pygmalion.

Starring in the role of Professor Henry Higgins is senior Marcus DeLoach, who has won many awards in singing and acting. Juniors Julie Gediman and Tanya Tamarkin will share the role of Eliza.

Tickets are $7. Children 10 years old and under and senior citizens may enter free or charge. Seating is unreserved.

Pike eighth-graders head to Quebec

A group of 22 eighth-graders and three faculty members from the Pike School will spend a long weekend in Quebec City May 1-3. The trip will enable these students of French to practice their language skills in a European-like city.

After their arrival at the Hilton Hotel and informal sightseeing on Friday, they will have an opportunity to swim in the hotel pool before a formal dinner in the rotating restaurant atop the Hotel Le Concorde.

Saturday will be a day of sightseeing and shopping. A treasure hunt in the afternoon will require students to work in pairs while traveling throughout the city and use their knowledge of French to ask questions of the natives.

A traditional Quebecois meal is scheduled in the evening at a restaurant selected for its country fare and informal entertainment. The students will visit the Musée de la Civilisation on Sunday morning before the return trip to Andover.

During the past month eighth-graders have been preparing for this trip. In their French classes they have been studying French-speaking Canada.

The students have made up games based on information about the country's culture and language.

The trip is an extension of Pike's classroom program and is under the direction of French department head Sylvia Soule.

Students spend term in D.C.

Phillips Academy seniors Tyrin Avery, Mark Jones and Allen Soong and junior David Bernstein, all of Andover, have been selected to spend the spring term in PA's Washington Intern program.

Ms. Avery is working in the capital as an assistant to Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass.; Mr. Bernstein to Rep. Chester Atkins, D-Mass.; Mr. Jones to Sen. Robert Kerrey, D-Nebr.; and Mr. Soong to Rep. Andy Ireland, R-Fla.

Each year 12 to 15 Andover uppers (11th-graders) or seniors in high academic standing are chosen to work in congressional offices with a similar group from Phillips Exeter Academy in New Hampshire. They live in a hotel and are supervised by an Andover or Exeter faculty member. They attend special seminars featuring Supreme Court justices and other key Washington figures and will gain an insider's view of the U.S. government in action.

Public service has been encouraged at Phillips ever since its founding in the middle of the American Revolution, said a school spokeswoman.

Ms. Avery is the daughter of Drs. Vincent B. J. and Anne C. Avery of Phillips Academy; Mr. Bernstein is the son of Beth L. Bernstein of Chestnut Street and William Bernstein of High Street; Mr. Jones is the son of Diane Jones of Chestnut Street; and Mr. Soong is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L-W Soong of Rose Glen Drive.

Environmental group plans fair

All 400 students in the Pike School had an opportunity to be part of Earth Day activities last week as a result of a dozen seventh-, eighth- and ninth-graders.

These members of the Student Environmental Committee sponsored a fair last Thursday, April 23, that involved students from prekindergarten through grade nine.

Committee members organized exhibits, games and contests. A schoolwide contest solicited ideas for a logo to be printed on shirts to be sold at the fair. The winning idea came from seventh-grader Jenny Paul.

Fair-goers were able to purchase raffle tickets, and two winners had quarter-acre sections of the rain forest purchased in their names for preservation. Exhibits featured information about such topics as endangered species, recycling and healthy foods.

Pike did not serve a cafeteria lunch, but students and faculty were asked to bring a brown bag lunch on fair day. The meal had to reflect environmental concern, without prepackaged food and wrappers that could not be recycled.

This event raised money for the preservation of the rainforest and landscaping of the Pike campus.

Proms: Are they overrated?

By Kira Nicolette

Juniors and seniors are agonizing over the big question: "Should I go to the prom?" On Saturday, May 16, from 6:30 to midnight, the Andover High School prom will take place at the Andover Marriott.

Soon, students will be buying their tickets for $30 per person. A variety of students say proms are too expensive and not that great. Are proms overrated?

Many students end up going to the prom because it's tradition, their friends are going or they were invited, but then they complain that it wasn't worth it. Asked about last year's prom, most said that the food was bad, the theme song wasn't played, and there weren't enough slow songs.

Senior Meghan McKee said that proms tend to be a ripoff. "You get dressed up, eat bad food and listen to bad music."

Although many students agree that the prom is overrated, a great deal of them continue to flock to the event every year.

Melissa Levasseur, a senior, thinks proms are too expensive but wants to go anyway. "I want to be able to say I've gone to a prom," she said.

Another problem is that some students really want to go but feel they cannot afford it. But according to junior class adviser Kathryn Aeder, the prom does not have to be that expensive.

Student bands rock the night away

By David Froburg

They have names like Loose Ends, Whip Cream and Dog House. And they came to do battle.

The high school held its annual Battle of the Bands March 27. With 300-plus students attending, it proved to be a successful fundraiser for class coffers.

The event was coordinated by Bill Hart, a social studies teacher at Andover High who started the Battle of the Bands six years ago and has been in charge ever since.

The evening began with a meeting of the bands with Mr. Hart. They discussed the setup, sound checks and also what was expected for the rest of the night.

Soon, as students were filing in to "the battle," a group of percussionists, organized by Matt McClune, played a couple of rhythmic songs.

Then it was time for the first band, Loose Ends. Their repertoire included songs by Rush, Cream and the Police.

Next up was a band with a style like none other, Dog House, playing fast-tempo songs. They performed tunes by Slapshot, ("I'm Not Your Stepin' Stone") and some originals.

After this aggressive performance, it was time for the easy acoustical music of Camp Key. The duo, Dan Feeley and Matt McClune, played acoustic guitars. This year they added three percussionists.

"I think it adds a lot of color to our music," Dan said.

Their performance was made even more unique by a set of chairs, couches, lamps and lit incense.

Next up was QuickShift, a band that's been together for only a couple of months. The group performed as if they have been playing together for three years. But this was their premier performance in front of a crowd.

Brian Workman, rhythm guitarist, said he couldn't believe how well the band did.

"We couldn't believe the acceptance we received from the audience," he said.

His band played such songs "Sweet Emotion" by Aerosmith, "Lonely as the Night" by Billy Squire, and the chart-topping "Smells like Teen Spirit" by Nirvana.

Another senior-oriented band, Guy Smiley, played songs by Aerosmith and Led Zeppelin, as well as a little Rush.

The last band to play was Whip Cream, the only band featuring a female bassist and two female singers. They played some Rush, Living Color and other tunes.

The audience said all the bands played exceptionally well. The musicians said they were excited about the evening and the number of students who turned out to watch.

Some of the bands, such as QuickShift and Guy Smiley, said they look forward to playing at a possible cookout, which usually happens in the spring, although plans are not definite.

The 'in' crowd

Some students complain about cliques

*I'm nobody! Who are you?
Are you nobody, too?
Then there's a pair of us - don't tell!
They'd banish us, you know.*

By Nicole Sisson

In this excerpt from a poem by Emily Dickinson, she shows how the emphasis on popularity is very strong in society. People change their appearances and feelings to fit into a certain group at their school.

This not only limits people's sociability, but very often it causes racial tension between two or more of the cliques.

Some students at Andover High have strong opinions on cliques, while others say they're not a problem.

"I don't think they make a big impact because you get together with people from all different groups and have just as much fun," said junior Amy LaPlante.

Gina Paone, another junior, took a similar stand. "Yes, you may notice at lunch the different cliques, but when everyone meets together at parties, social gatherings, sports events . . . you no longer see the separation among groups," she said.

Faculty member David Gangi, who teaches English, says cliques form out of common bonds.

Cliques 'inhibit your sense of individualism and suppress you into conformity.'

"People gravitating to their own kind is a natural thing," Mr. Gangi said. "I don't think there is anything wrong with it. It only becomes a bad situation when one group thinks they are better than another."

But junior Kim Rand called cliques at Andover High a "major problem."

"Not only do they designate who you can and who you cannot hang out with - which means you miss out on a lot of people who aren't in your group - they also inhibit your sense of individualism and suppress you into conformity," Kim said.

It's not hard to spot a clique: Walking through the hallways, one can see groups of people dressed exactly alike.

One of the most dreaded questions for students to answer is: "Who do you hang out with?" There are many answers, from jocks to punks to head-bangers to hoodies.

Model U.N. group named best school delegation

By Steve Neal

The Andover High School Model United Nations classes made their annual trip to Lawrence High School all this month.

Model U.N. teacher George Sullivan takes his classes to Lawrence High each year to participate in the Merrimack Valley Model United Nations competition. Sullivan said this year's trip was very exciting. The Andover classes were selected to represent the countries of Vietnam and Libya.

"Being chosen to represent Libya was really exciting," said senior Mike Pettoruto.

Mike said the day before the visit to Lawrence High, the real-life United Nations passed a resolution that placed sanctions on the country of Libya until they turned over the people responsible for the bombing of Flight 103 over Lockerbie, Scotland.

He felt the students representing the other countries of the world would be against the Libyan delegation.

Mike left the event with an honorable mention award. This award was given to four people in each of nine small subcommittees.

The student moderator, from Lawrence High, picked the winners by how much and how well they spoke.

"I felt honored to receive such a prestigious award," Mike said.

The Libyan delegation left the U.N. with an award for best delegation from a visiting school. Several other students also received awards, including Jeff Stein, Elliot Pena and Jamie Humber.

"I felt that the program was very well run, and I had a fun time at Lawrence High," Jeff said.

Everything seemed to run smoothly, students said, with many Andover students attending the event. About 15 to 20 students from Andover High represented the Libyan delegation, with the same number representing Vietnam.

After the event, Matt Daniels proposed that next year's group attending the Model U.N. should dress up in the costumes of the country they represent.

"It's a great opportunity to meet new people and to learn about the procedures of the United Nations in New York," said Mike Pettoruto.

Students said the Lawrence Model U.N. is much different from their own classes at Andover High.

For one thing, they said, it's more exciting. The students attributed this to the fact that the Lawrence program is a three-day event that only happens once a year.

Libyan delegate Mike Pettoruto felt the students representing the other countries would be against Libya.

Some say prom is overrated

"The prom will only be as expensive as you let it be," Mrs. Aeder said. "Certain expenses can't be avoided, but with a little creativity and common sense, you can go to the prom without going broke."

For example, limos, new gowns and individual photographs are not a must.

"A single long-stem rose can be far more elegant and romantic than an enormous, expensive bouquet," said Mrs. Aeder.

Jim Batchelder, one of the high school's past prom chaperones, feels that it is nice that students and faculty can get dressed up to go to an occasion. "It's a good social learning experience," he said.

And there must be something about the event that attracts much of the student body. Many agree with Mrs. Aeder: "The prom is a very special night in your high school career where friendship and fun come together."

Alan Guibord and Eureka Franklin show off the style of this year's prom.

Fifth-graders learn to recycle

Fifth-graders at West Elementary School are learning more about trash so they can contribute less to the local, national and world garbage problem. As part of the National Geographic Kids Network, Liz Greene's fifth-graders are learning as much as they can about the problem.

In order to learn what they can do to diminish the amount of trash they throw out, the students researched what makes up the majority of trash, where garbage goes once it's thrown away and what can and can't be recycled. The students invited local experts to their class recently to talk trash.

Virginia Cole, an active member of Andover's recycling community joined Robert McQuade, director of Andover's Public Works Department, and Joyce Ringleb, chairwoman of the town's volunteer Water Conservation Commission. Also participating in the discussion was Lloyd Wiley, president of Belland Inc. A recycling consultant, Mr. Wiley is also the father of West fifth-grader Laurie.

Becky Ambro, daughter of Janice and Greg Ambro, 66 Bailey Road, moderated the discussion between the adults and students.

Once the students learned more about Andover's trash they shared their knowledge with other students in the National Geographic Kids Network nationwide through a computer link.

Theater troupes visit school

Students at West Elementary School will get a taste of drama when they're visited by opera singers and a troupe of African dancers next month.

Opera to Go, presented by Young Audiences of Massachusetts, will come to the school on Wednesday, May 20.

And the next day, the Bamidele Dancers and Drummers will perform for kindergartners.

Young Audiences is a non-profit organization that brings live professional dance, theater and music education programs to schools.

Opera to Go introduces children to the different singing voices and demonstrates how the voice can communicate emotions.

Without costumes or props, operatic drama can create a lot of images.

Children help improvise a short fairy-tale opera in this participatory program.

The Bamidele Dancers perform rhythms of Africa, South America and the West Indies. Honoring tribal gods, giving thanks for the harvest and welcoming honored guests are demonstrated by costumed performers using traditional handmade instruments.

The programs are funded in part by the Massachusetts Cultural Council.

Craft fair previewed Saturday

The 16th annual Crafts in The Park, sponsored by the American Field Service and Department of Community Services, will be held Saturday, May 9, (rain date, Sunday, May 10) from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. in The Park at the corner of Chestnut and Bartlett streets.

More than 130 craftspeople and artisans from all over New England, including many from Andover and North Andover, will exhibit and sell their work.

Among the crafts being exhibited this year are quilts, folk art, children's clothing, woodwork and collector dolls. A special preview exhibit and demonstration by local craftspeople will also take place Saturday, May 2, at Andover Bank in Andover Center from 9 a.m. to noon.

Crafts in The Park is the major annual fund-raising event for the Andover chapter of AFS Intercultural Programs.

Kathy Maxwell and B.J. Witman, co-chairwomen of Crafts in The Park, admire decorative painting by one of the artists who will show her work Saturday, May 9, in front of town offices.

The volunteer organization is dedicated to the idea of furthering world peace and cross-cultural understanding through student and adult exchanges.

Proceeds from the craft show help provide full or partial scholarships to bring AFS students from overseas to Andover, as well as send Andover students abroad.

Youngsters help Easter Seals

Youngsters at the Andover YMCA and West Parish nursery schools are learning about physical disabilities through a special Easter Seal program sponsored by T.J. Maxx.

The Easter Seal Hop-n-ing teaches children about the causes of disabilities, their effects on people's everyday lives and how wheelchairs, crutches and other specialized equipment work, a spokeswoman said.

The next part of the program gives the kids a chance to help. They hop as many times as they can in three minutes, earning money pledged for each hop.

The funds they raise help provide Easter Seal services for people with disabilities. Services include summer camp, therapeutic swim programs and physical and occupational therapy.

Committee deals with school days, pink slips

By Lisa Boudreau

The School Committee took care of several business items at its meeting Tuesday night, including setting the last day of school, terminating three tenured teachers, choosing dates to interview finalists for two open principal positions and beginning a process to plan for the future of the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts.

No school in July

Tuesday, June 23, will be the last day for public school. Because students missed several days due to a mold problem at West Elementary last November and a chemical spill at the high school in March, Superintendent Mark McQuillan requested verification of the June 23, date from the state Department of Education. The schools will still meet minimum requirement of instructional hours for the school year even with the missed days.

Pink slipping teachers

Three teachers will be notified this week that they will not be guaranteed a job next year. Joanne Devney, a home economics teacher at West Middle School; Teresa Consentino, an art teacher at South Elementary; and Fred Borrello, a business teacher at the high school; were terminated by the School Committee Tuesday night.

"It is with deep regret that we take this action," committee member Chris Outwin said before the vote.

Last year the committee laid off 38 teachers because of budget cuts and shortfalls in state aid.

Principal searches

Jack Coyle, an administrator in the system for more than 20 years and the current principal of West Elementary School, will retire at the end of this school year. The principalship at Doherty Middle School is also open. Former principal Richard McGrail died in December, 1991.

Acting Doherty principal Floyd McManus was a finalist for the principalship at West Middle School, which was filled last September.

Dr. McQuillan is now accepting applications for citizen volunteers to serve on an advisory committee to help him look through applications for both positions. Those interested should contact the superintendent's office.

These preliminary screening meetings will not be open to the public. Because no official decisions will be made, these meetings do not have to conform to the open meeting laws. Once Dr. McQuillan has chosen finalists, interviews are open to the public.

The committee hopes to interview finalists for the middle school position May 14, 15 and 16 and vote on Dr. McQuillan's recommendation at its meeting Tuesday, May 19.

The committee will interview finalists for the elementary position the last week of May and vote on the superintendent's recommendation at its meeting Tuesday, June 2.

The finalist interviews will be advertised and open to the public.

According to Candace Hall, director of personnel, the town has received about 30 applications for each position.

Collins Center business

The committee has formed a subcommittee to help it investigate what public interest there is in expanding the use of the Collins Center beyond functioning as a high school auditorium. From 1982 to 1991 the Collins Center had three functions - a high school auditorium, a community theater and a stage for professional productions.

The Collins Center was run by the Andover Endowment for the Arts, a non-profit group of citizens and business people chosen by former Town Manager Ken Mahony to protect the town from liability.

The AEA hired a management group to schedule professional performances in the hall after school hours. The AEA went bankrupt in February 1991 and since then the facility has been used primarily by the high school.

Counting pennies

The school administration is closely watching the substitute budget, which has begun to worry officials. According to David Reilly, the school accountant, the committee had budgeted $250,000 this year for substitutes, but he anticipates the costs could reach as high as $280,000.

According to Pat Deltrecco, substitute coordinator, the number of absences has risen. One-third, or 102, of the schools' teachers were absent during the week before April vacation, she told the committee Tuesday night.

Ms. Deltrecco said the committee should be aware of the growing trend of teachers calling on Monday to say they will be sick on Friday.

"Or the collect call I get saying, 'I've missed my plane and I can't get home.' I don't accept those," she said.

Charges brought in dog/chicken killing

Gronquist, at 261 Salem St., the owner of the chickens. Mr. Ferris caught one of the dogs and tied it to a post outside a barn with rope given to him by Stephen Maher, a friend or relative from Chelmsford, according to police. The other dog ran away.

Ms. Gronquist said she and her son, Gary Gronquist, 34, came out of the house and began shooting some of the 100 chickens into the barn, but had to move the dog because it was tied too close to the barn and was scaring the chickens. She untied the dog and moved it round to the front of the house, and tied it up again. Allen Gronquist, 34, another son, then allegedly came out of the house with a shotgun and, while it was still tied up, shot the dog twice, killing it.

Ms. Gronquist said Allen was in the shower when she first alerted her boys that the dogs were chasing the chickens. After she moved the dog around to the front of the house, she went back to look for the chickens. A daughter then saw the dog out in the yard and said, "There's the dog now," according to Ms. Gronquist, which is when Allen came out of the house and, from about 30 feet away, shot the dog.

"He didn't realize the dog was tied up," Ms. Gronquist said.

Allen Gronquist has been charged with cruelty to animals for shooting the dog. No decision has been made on the firearms bylaw violation. Allen Gronquist does have a firearms identification permit to carry a shotgun. Patrolman James Reilly is still investigating.

"The chickens were all over the place, some wounded so bad they couldn't move, and others dead" when he arrived on the scene, Officer Reilly wrote in his initial report.

Ms. Gronquist, who has about 100 egg-laying chickens, does not consider shooting the dog "cruelty."

"There's a law that states you can shoot any animal that's killing livestock," Ms. Gronquist said.

But, while one part of the town bylaw does allow the killing of dogs under certain conditions, according to Sgt. Brian Pattullo. "The dog was not in the act of killing fowl when he was shot," Sgt. Pattullo read from a police report.

The chickens were allowed to roam free before the incident, according to Ms. Gronquist. They are now kept in a pen.

"It was two days before we found all the chickens," Ms. Gronquist said.

The dogs were never a problem before, she said.

"We have seen them before in the yard. They didn't do anything, just running around," Ms. Gronquist said.

She has also seen the dog that ran away at least once since the incident, she said.

Friendly dog

Patricia Hoopes, of 9 Wethersfield Drive, owner of the dead dog, a medium-size, mix-breed female named Roxie, has been charged with leash law and nuisance violations.

She and her husband, Jim, picked up the roughly year-and-half-old dog last October at the Melrose humane society. Roxie was very friendly and playful, and that night had been playing outside her house with 5-year old son, Jamie Hoopes, and other neighborhood kids and dogs. When the family was going out at 6 p.m., Ms. Hoopes called Roxie but she was not around. That was unusual, but the dog never went too far so she wasn't too worried. She was more concerned when she came home at about 9 p.m. and Roxie was still not home. Then she got the call and a visit from Officer Nader explaining that the dog had been killed. It was a few days later that she found out Roxie had been tied up when she was shot.

"I was very, very upset over the loss of her," Ms. Hoopes said.

She and her husband considered not telling Jamie how the dog had died, but thought better of it and told him everything. She said that was best because all the details spread through the neighborhood like wildfire.

Catching Roxie would have been easy for Mr. Ferris, according to Ms. Hoopes, because all you had to do was call her or offer her a ball and she'd come to you. She doesn't buy the story that Mr. Gronquist didn't know the dog was tied up.

"There isn't any way that a dog who's tied up is going to sit there with a slack rope" with all those chickens running around, Ms. Hoopes said. "The other thing is, what is this man doing with a rifle walking out and shooting without looking? We're talking about a pet dog. I never heard her growl.

"I don't accept it. I think it's an excuse. I think he did something cruel."

Ms. Hoopes said she plans to make sure the charges against Mr. Gronquist are followed up on and are not pushed aside.

"It's pretty bizarre," Ms. Hoopes said.

She wasn't sure if the family would get another dog.

"I hope so. She was really a great, great dog," Ms. Hoopes said.

The ironic part of the whole thing is that she and her husband had an appointment to have an invisible fence installed the next day, at 8:30 Sunday morning. With an invisible fence, an electric wire buried along the perimeter of a property emits a charge that is picked up by a collar around the dog's neck, shocking the dog if it gets too close to the wire.

The Hoopes canceled the appointment. Ms. Hoopes was fined $25 on each of the two violations.

But Ms. Hoopes praised Officer Nader for his handling of the situation.

"He was very sympathetic, very compassionate about my feelings and my family's feelings," Ms. Hoopes said.

Paul L. Kenney, of 16 Wethersfield Drive, who allegedly owned the other dog involved, a husky, was also charged with leash law and nuisance violations, and was also fined $25 on each. Mr. Kenney and Mr. Gronquist requested the court hearing, according to police. Mr. Kenney could not be reached for comment.

Seniors clown around for a cause

The Andover Senior Center is once again offering its support and talent to the Andona Society-sponsored Clown Town.

Each Monday since last fall, nine women at the Senior Center have been assembling and sewing clown hats and ruffles to be sold at Clown Town on Saturday, May 16, from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in The Park.

Seniors Mary Deacon, Rita Gallant, Eleanor Goodwin, Vivian Guy, Madeline Kinnear, Edna Powell, Alice Starta, Margaret Tulley and Lee Valliere have crafted colorful and amusing hats and ruffles.

The volunteer seamstresses worked at the Senior Center on a loaned sewing machine and at home during the week. Volunteer coordinator Olivia Scileppi was joined by Meg Batcheller and Marianne Tompkins, Clown Town paraphernalia chairwomen, in organizing the second annual project.

This lucky youth will chase balls, make sure the floor is kept clear and go home wearing a Celtics jacket.

The winner will be chosen by raffle at the Andona Society's annual Clown Town Saturday, May 16, in The Park.

Tickets are $1 each or six for $5. They may be purchased from any Andona member or at Clown Town next to the bandstand.

What's wrong with the ATC?

By Alison B. Colby

Critical acclaim, contemporary works, audience accolades — all for "The Wrights of Spring," an evening of three one-act plays brought by the Andover Theatre Company for its final weekend, May 1 and 2, at 8 p.m. at Old Town Hall on Main Street.

And yet, despite these kudos, barely more than 100 people saw the show during opening weekend. This leads the board of directors, the members and the actors to wonder: What's wrong with the Andover Theatre Company? How come so few area residents turn out for its shows?

When pitted against other groups in the New England Theatre Conference, ATC members are frequently nominated for best actors. Last year Maureen Woodell took home the highest acting award for her performance in Extremities.

Could it be the shows themselves? As the group attempts to perform serious pieces, is the audience reluctant to view anything but the tried and true musical? Curtain up on Man of La Mancha — a great musical, strong area actors, many professional musicians. The result? La Mancha lost money.

Are ticket prices are too high? Movies cost $7 per person. At $8 for adults, $5 for students and seniors for "The Wrights of Spring," it is hard to imagine that someone might prefer to see a movie that will be out on video in a few months for $2 to $3.

Andover Theatre Company doesn't know what to do. The future looks bleak for the non-profit group, which may find the financial strain a final curtain call.

Editor's note: Alison Colby is on ATC's board of directors.

She has also studied at the Longy School of Music in Cambridge with Lois Shapiro. She currently studies with Peter Warsaw at Phillips.

A four-year student at Phillips, Ms. Altshuler received a monetary award from the Harvard Music Association for musically talented high school students, and was last June's recipient of the PA Friskin Music Prize. She has won the concerto competition at Longy School of Music twice.

Violinist Maki M. Hsieh will give her senior recital Sunday May 3, at 7:30 p.m. in the Timken Recital Room.

Pianist gives class

A piano master class featuring Phillips Academy students playing selected movements of major piano literature will be presented by the school's music department Wednesday, May 6, at 2 p.m. in the Timken Recital Room at Graves Hall.

The master class will be conducted by pianist Victor Rosenbaum, director of the Longy School of Music in Cambridge since 1985.

Mr. Rosenbaum is critically acclaimed for his solo recitals, performances with leading orchestras and chamber music collaborations with such musicians as Leonard Rose, Walter Trampler and the Cleveland Quartet.

He has toured the United States and has appeared in Brazil, Japan, Israel and the former Soviet Union.

A cum laude graduate of Brandeis University, Mr. Rosenbaum did his graduate study in theory and composition at Princeton University.

An accomplished conductor, he was invited by Gunther Schuller to join the Boston New England Conservatory of Music faculty in 1967. From 1969 to 1980, Mr. Rosenbaum served as chairman of the school's chamber music department.

He also headed the piano department of North Carolina's Eastern Music Festival and held a visiting professorship at the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N.Y.

Mr. Rosenbaum has performed in New York's Alice Tully Hall and Boston's Jordan Hall and the Gardner Museum.

His class is free of charge, and the public is invited.

Russian musicians give concert

A group of Russian musicians will present a concert Saturday, May 9, to benefit the resettlement of Russian Jewish families in the Merrimack Valley.

Sponsored by Jewish Family Service of the Merrimack Valley, the concert will be held at 8 p.m. at Temple Emanuel, 7 Haggetts Pond Road.

Violinist Lilia Mouchnik, who received her musical education at the Gnesin Musical Institute of Moscow, will be accompanied by pianist Tanya Kodinsky for pieces by Debussy, Tchaikovsky and Gaze.

Other performers include pianist Natalie Altshuler, a senior at Phillips Academy and former Moscow Conservatory student; cellist Tanya Anisimova; and pianist Eugenia Mironovich.

Soprano Laura Jeanne Bewig, a college student who last year spent a month in Russia studying the repertoire of classical Russian romances, will sing.

Tickets for the benefit performance are $18 for the concert and dessert. Sponsor tickets for $75 include preferred seating, a champagne reception, the concert and dessert.

Chorale in concert

Student musicians prepare senior recitals

Ms. Hsieh will be accompanied by Mr. Warsaw on the piano.

Pianist Sook-young Shin will play Ludwig van Beethoven's Sonata No. 4 in E-flat Major, Op. 7, Johannes Brahms' Intermezzo, Op. 118, No. 1; Claude Debussy's Prelude from Pour le Piano Suite; and Sergei Prokofiev's Sonata No. 3, in a minor, Op. 28. Ms. Shin will give her recital Wednesday, May 6, at 7 p.m. in the Timken Recital Room.

She was born in Chicago but received most of her piano instruction in Houston, Texas. Ms. Shin won numerous local piano contests before entering larger competitions. When she was 10, she entered a five-state concerto competition where she had to compete against many older and more experienced performers.

Nevertheless, she walked away with an honorable mention and returned the next year to win first place in the 11- to 16-year-old group. That year she was named most outstanding soloist at the Kappa Kappa Psi Invitational and won first place in two Houston-area piano competitions.

As a result, she gave concerts with the University of Houston and North Houston symphony orchestras.

In the eighth grade, Ms. Shin moved to Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, her current home.

She accompanied her school choir for two years and played for two school musicals, H.M.S. Pinafore and The King and I.

This year, she accompanied two Phillips musicals, Side by Side by Sondheim and Into the Woods. Since her arrival at PA as a 10th-grader, she has studied with Christopher Walter and played in several student recitals.

Ms. Shin also enjoys playing squash and writing poetry. A third-place winner of the Bailey Prize in mathematics and an honor roll student for eight consecutive terms, she is currently taking a theory and listening class where she is able to try her hand at composition. Next year, she will attend either Brown or Stanford University where she will continue her piano career.

All three recitals are free of charge, and the public is invited.

Historical Society displays stitchery

By Charlotte Smith

The Andover Historical Society opens a new exhibition, "A Stitch in Time: Creative Needlework," on Thursday, April 30. Guided tours are available Monday through Friday between 1 and 3 p.m., Wednesday evenings from 5 until 8:30 p.m., and by appointment. There is a small admission for non-members.

Fancy sewing or needlework was primarily decorative and included embroidery of all kinds, quilting, lacemaking, tatting, netting, canvas work and crochet, while making and mending household linens and clothing, marking linens, knitting and darning were considered plain sewing. The emphasis of this exhibit is on the fancy and creative needlework.

All girls learned plain sewing at home beginning at age 5 or 6. Girls 12 to 18 from well-to-do families attended private academies where they were taught fancy needlework among other subjects. By the mid-19th century these academies placed more emphasis on academic study and consequently women had to rely on the increasing number of books and periodicals to learn fancy work.

The earliest quilts made in America were "whole-cloth" quilts. When the rise of the domestic textile industry in the 1830s made attractive cotton prints readily available and affordable, patchwork quilts became more common. They reached their height of popularity between 1850 and 1875. Silk and velvet crazy quilts became the fashion during the last quarter of the 19th century. More decorative than functional, these quilts were often draped over a chair in the parlor rather than placed on a bed.

On view at the historical society are centennial quilts, 1876 and 1976, and an autograph patchwork by Free Church women.

Lacemaking examples include both needle and bobbin laces. Tatting became popular in the 19th century. Netting by hand created items as large and utilitarian as fishing nets or as small and fanciful as doilies.

Canvaswork covers both samplers and Berlin work. Both the Abbot and Osgood families are represented by samplers, one dating from 1762. Examples of Berlin work, the precursor to needlepoint, were donated by the Smith and Cheever families.

Crocheting was regarded as the decorative form of knitting and became popular in the mid-19th century. The exhibit shows silver-handled and bone crochet hooks, as well as the finished products: booties, caps, a petticoat, doilies and a neck-piece.

Pieces of antique sewing equipment illustrate the practical side of the exhibition, and several portraits show how an individual dressed in this fancy work.

"A Stitch in Time: Creative Needlework" will be on view through mid-October. The Andover Historical Society is located at 97 Main St.

Historian talks about witch trials

This year marks the 300th anniversary of the Salem witch trials, which touched the lives of many citizens of the original settlement of Andover.

Fifty men, women and children were accused and brought to Salem for examination and imprisonment; many were sentenced to hang, and four Andoverites died. Many more were involved as afflicted and accusers.

The North Andover Historical Society, in cooperation with the Andover Historical Society, will offer a look at those troubled times in a lecture by Richard B. Trask of the Danvers Archival Center Wednesday, May 6. The lecture will be held in Old Center Hall, 3 Great Pond Road, at 7:30 p.m.

Mr. Trask's lecture, "The Discovery of Witchcraft," will explain how historians use primary sources and objects to understand or "discover" the lifestyles and culture of the 17th century.

Using some examples from Andover, Mr. Trask will bring the 17th-century mind-set into perspective for the modern audience grappling with the question "How could this happen?"

Mr. Trask, who also serves as the chairman of the Salem Village Tercentennial Committee, is the author of Salem Village and the Witch Hysteria. His newest work, The Devil Hath Been Raised: A Documentary History of the Salem Village Witchcraft Outbreak of March, 1692, is due to be published in mid-May by the Danvers Historical Society.

Admission is free for members of the Andover and North Andover historical societies and $1 for the general public. Refreshments will be served.

Genealogists meet

Korean church celebrates new addition, anniversary

The North Boston Korean United Methodists consecrated the new addition to their building at 244 Lowell St. Sunday.

The consecration also celebrated the anniversary of the congregation, which was organized 15 years ago in Methuen. The congregation bought the Andover building in 1981.

The addition provides much-needed space for North Boston's growing church school, an expanded fellowship hall and new office space, said the Rev. Sung Kim, senior pastor.

The addition also provides office space for the Korean-American Society of New England, Rev. Kim said.

The church serves families from a wide geographic area, including students at Phillips Academy. Worship services in English and Korean are held each Sunday.

Bishop F. Herbert Skeete of United Methodism's Boston area, participated in the consecration. The Rev. Kwan Lee, superintendent of the Metropolitan Boston North District, also assisted.

Ministers of North Boston Church are the Rev. Kim and the Rev. Harold Perkins, associate pastor. Suk-Man Park chaired the building committee and Tong-Wang So chairs the church's board of trustees.

A Korean meal was served to guests.

Ms. Abugov's work was judged along with that from major metropolitan museums all over the country. She also won first place for her invitation to the gallery's Edward M. Bridge and contemporary American photography exhibition, Motion and Document: Sequence and Time. Ms. Abugov created a flip book of two of Mr. M. Bridge's photo essays. Flipped one way it simulates a bird's flight and when turned over and flipped the other way, it documents a man leap-frogging over another.

"My children love flip books. One day I sat down and made a million of them and then thought it would be a good way to announce the exhibit," she said.

Her design for the Motion and Document: Sequence and Time catalog tied for second place.

Selectmen nix police/town manager agreement

agreement reached with the town manager.

Selectmen vaguely denied the allegation they had voted on the contract and Selectman Gerald Silverman asked Officer Siopes where he heard those rumors. Officer Siopes did not say. Charles Wesson, selectmen chairman, said the public meeting was not the place for the contract negotiations to take place.

"I'd love to get into it with some questions and comments, but I can't," Mr. Wesson told Officer Siopes.

Mr. Wesson asked Mr. Stapczynski if he had previously notified Officer Siopes of the status of the negotiations and Mr. Stapczynski said that he had.

"I was aware selectmen rejected the tentative agreement. Is that right?" Mr. Siopes asked Mr. Wesson.

Mr. Wesson again said he would not get into it.

"Buzz is the negotiator. He's our bargaining agent, just like you're the bargaining agent for the police," Mr. Wesson said.

Mr. Wesson explained that Mr. Stapczynski has to bring the agreement back to selectmen for approval just as Mr. Siopes had to bring the town's offer back to union members for ratification. But during the confrontation, Mr. Wesson stopped short of saying whether the board did or did not vote.

Mr. Stapczynski said the board sets policy for the town, has control of the compensation fund and has the right to review the contract offer.

Selectmen said they would get town counsel's opinion on whether they had the right to approve a contract negoti-

'They played Monday morning quarterback. That's what I think happened. I think there's a beef between the selectmen and the town manager.'

Tom Siopes

ated by the town manager.

"Town counsel's opinion is as good as mine," Officer Siopes shot back.

The 32-member patrolmen's union on April 7 overwhelmingly approved the tentative agreement reached with Mr. Stapczynski last month. They had been expecting to sign the contract on May 1. Patrolmen have been working without a contract since July of 1989. The three-year contract settlement is so long overdue that it only covers the period ending this June 30.

Patrolman Dennis Lane, following the meeting, said the patrolmen are upset with the most recent failure to settle a contract.

"What do you think? It's ridiculous," Officer Lane said.

Mr. Wesson said after the meeting that although the board members' intentions were known to Mr. Stapczynski, no official action was taken on the agreement in the executive session.

"There was no vote taken," Mr. Wesson said.

"The sense of the board was that this wasn't something that they would support; it was not acceptable," said Mr. Stapczynski. "There was no vote. No votes have been taken."

Mr. Stapczynski said he could sense from the discussion with selectmen that, "I knew this wasn't a direction in which my bosses felt comfortable."

He said the selectmen didn't like the "economic package" he had negotiated with the police.

Officer Siopes said Tuesday that a selectman told one or more patrolmen the board took a vote, informal or not, on the contract and voted it down, and he held to his argument that they had no right to do so.

"We don't think they have the authority to do that," he said. "It violates the (open meeting) law."

Officer Siopes said selectmen should say publicly whether they voted on the agreement. If they did, a ruling should be made as to whether that violated the open meeting law. A ruling should also be made as to whether the board has the authority to approve the contract.

"I don't think they do," Officer Siopes said.

That is an option selectmen did not have under Ken Mahony, former town manager, and which they are trying to establish with Mr. Stapczynski, Officer Siopes said.

"They are looking for a new power they never had," he said.

Officer Siopes said he also believes selectmen thought an issue about when patrolmen could take their vacations was the only issue preventing a settlement, and were disturbed to find out other issues were involved in the final negotiations.

"They played Monday morning quarterback," Officer Siopes said. "That's what I think happened. I think there's a beef between the selectmen and the town manager."

Some of the additional issues that were resolved in the most recent agreement included resolution of a grievance by patrolmen over detail pay owed them, which Officer Siopes estimated is worth more than $200,000 to the town. That grievance was to be dropped in exchange for incentives for veteran officers, at a cost of about $10,000 to the town.

"That was one of the things we traded off," Officer Siopes said.

Now that issue could be alive again as a potential lawsuit, according to Officer Siopes.

Mr. Stapczynski scheduled a meeting for further contract negotiations on May 8, according to Officer Siopes, but the union president said he didn't know what the patrolmen's next move would be.

"We may meet in a courtroom," Mr. Siopes said Tuesday.

Asked if the patrolmen would consider a strike or any other such action, Mr. Siopes said they would not strike.

"That's unlawful," he said. "I really don't know what is next."

He did not discount other job action, such as picket lines, but said those have not been discussed by union members at this point.

Other patrolmen at the meeting last night, but who did not speak, included Randall Peterson, Lawrence Hickman, Frank Froburg, Dennis Lane, Joseph Ouellette, Fred Sunderland, Cecilia Blais and Harry Collins.

Creating baskets for May Day celebrations

By Maria Moskos

May 1 is May Day. Rituals on this day are remembrances of pagan attempts to force spring to return to the world. Some sources trace May Day rites to the druids who worshiped the sun. At the center of revelry is the May pole.

This guardian of trees, crowned with garlands of leaves and flowers, is supposed to encourage the creation of abundance.

Ancient Romans observed their spring festival to honor Flora, the goddess of flowers. With the return of spring, flowers were abundant, so everyone went to the fields to gather them.

Young girls in Sicily gather daisies and people in Paris exchange little bouquets of lilies of the valley.

In the United States, we follow the custom of Great Britain in giving May baskets. There, the custom was to hang little flower-filled baskets on door knobs on the eve of May Day and call out, "May basket." The idea was to get away without being discovered. (This custom stemmed from the old belief that the baskets would keep evil spirits away).

This custom has been revived in schools in recent years, but children today want to be discovered. In some areas, May baskets are made for the elderly or those hospitalized.

Children young and old can create a May basket by using a plastic berry basket and weaving ribbon or yarn in and out the openings or by folding a square of construction or floral wrapping paper four times and cutting slit in four places, gluing the ends together and adding a handle.

May baskets can be filled with fresh flowers and flower-shaped cookies decorated with crystallized fresh flowers:

Crystallized fresh flowers

1/2 butter
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg beaten
2 cups flour
Crystallized flowers (see below)
Food coloring, optional
Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg and mix well. Add flour and mix with a wooden spoon until dough is firm. (For colored flowers, separate dough into balls, tinting each one with a drop or two of any shade of food coloring.) Chill dough in refrigerator for one hour.

Roll out the dough (or each ball) and cut out flower shapes, such as daisies or tulips, with cookie cutters. Place a crystallized flower on each cookie and place on greased baking sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes until light brown. Makes 16.

Crystallized flowers

Use fresh primroses, violets, rose petals, borage flowers, honeysuckle or carnations that are dry and free from insecticides. It is best to use newly-opened flowers, removing all green parts and white heels of petals.

Dissolve a teaspoon of gum arabic (available in pharmacies) in 1 fluid ounce of vodka.

Paint each petal or flower with the mixture, coat with granulated sugar and dry on rack in a warm place until crisp.

This news is encouraging

We're feeling encouraged about business in downtown Andover, and business in general.

Daher's is expanding. It's committed enough to doing business in Andover to operate two stores here. In addition, John Daher and his sister, Joyce Belko, owners and operators of the family shoe business, are moving the operations/business side of their firm to the Olde Andover Village site.

"We have a lot of confidence in Andover. It's been a good town for us and we're very happy here," said Mr. Daher.

Not only that, they seem to know something about doing business in downtown Andover that we sometimes think other merchants miss: Businesses have to give consumers a reason to shop here instead of at malls. Daher's promises to put the fun back into buying shoes for children. They have hired Old Town Hall for its grand opening Sunday, May 31, when it will feature theater for kids.

Also in the good news department for business is the fact that Deborah Lane, owner of the Andover Gift Shop, has decided to move her business from her cramped quarters on Post Office Avenue to more space at 4 Main S. She's doing that well here, and believes business in Andover is coming back: "The town is filling back up again, thank the Lord."

In addition, First Federal Savings Bank of Boston opened a branch recently at 77 Main St. "It is significant that a new business is locating in Andover," Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski said at the bank's opening.

Last week we learned that Bertucci's is working to open a satellite operation, mostly takeout, at the former Brigham's on Main Street. And now we have the Athlete's Corner moving into space on Main Street, next to Gentry.

Also, members of the Central Business District Committee know about pushing the downtown and its new businesses here. That group will hold Taste of Andover Wednesday, May 13, 6-9 p.m. at Old Town Hall, the first annual business recognition evening to honor businesses that are new to Andover or have expanded in the past 18 months.

The Townsmen has noticed an increase in walk-in traffic since moving closer to the center of downtown.

Let's continue to work to make Andover an exciting and useful place to shop. Merchants need to continue to entertain and entice shoppers. See you downtown.

Sal Delmonte, Janet Alberich and Scott Hilse rehearse for On Tidy Endings, one of three one-act plays the Andover Theatre Company is performing this weekend.

What's wrong with Andover Theatre Co.?

By Perry Colmore Catlin

Something is very wrong here. Last Friday night I attended the Andover Theatre Company's "The Wrights of Spring," an evening of three one-act plays at Old Town Hall.

About 30 to 40 people attended, and it was opening night. Frankly, it was embarrassing. At the end of the first play, which I thought was excellent, it was impossible to fill the room with the type of applause we would have liked and the theater company deserved.

Now I am relieved that members of the Andover Theatre Company are telling it like it is. Their press release, which is about sparse attendance, is published on page 21 in today's Townsmen. The poor showing "leads the board of directors, the members and the actors to wonder 'What's wrong with the Andover Theatre Company?'" they ask.

Nothing, I say. Someone said the Andover Theatre Company is the best kept secret in town. Well, that makes me feel crazy because the Townsmen certainly publicizes it. And people talk about the company's productions.

Monday, Janet Alberich, who plays Marion in On Tidy Endings, told me, "You have to do it for the enjoyment, but it's a little disheartening to not see people in the audience after six to eight weeks of rehearsals."

She pointed out that the three one-act plays are not "name plays." But when the company presented Man of La Mancha, a critically acknowledged great musical, the group lost money on it.

The company has won many awards.

"The Andover Theatre Company does not know what to do. The future looks bleak for the non-profit group, which finds the financial strain of putting on shows which only the smallest group of people sees."

The question is, would anyone care if the theater group quit? The company is looking for input from the public. Call ATC at 475-4221, or let the Townsmen know.

But in the meantime, check out this production this weekend.

The first play of the evening Haiku, was well done, moving and the evening's best, in my opinion. It is directed by Pam Le Mieux and Jim Ferguson is the stage manager. Juree James plays Louise, an autistic person, and she is most convincing in the part. Families that have a handicapped member will be able to identify with this short play.

In the second play, People in the Wind, Ryan Woolsey directs eight actors and actresses in a drama that takes place in a small-town restaurant in Kansas. Although his part is small, Joe Miglio is a convincing drunk whose love in life is Shakespeare.

Marcelle Gregg directs the third play, On Tidy Endings, in which Scott Hilse plays his part in an extraordinarily sensitive manner. He and Juree James win my award for the best actor and actress of the evening.

But they are not all that is good about "The Wrights of Spring." Andover stands to lose one of its gems if the public doesn't wake up and take in this arts bargain. I recommend it. Let us know what you think.

I exercise, I really do. Two, three or sometimes four times a week I work out at Silverado health club for women in Park Street Village, along with 800 other women. I used to be a walker since I have a dog. But my dog goes to college with my daughter now (yes, even to classes), so I don't walk that often. Recently, when I took a long walk, one of my knees hurt. So I'm wondering how I'd do in this coming Sunday's 20-mile Walk for Hunger in Boston. Organized by

'I enjoy Town Meeting'

Editor, Townsmen:

As a fourth generation native of Andover, I guess I have inherited some of my dad's (often referred to as "Mr. Moderator") loyalties to the customs and traditions of the town. I enjoy Town Meeting. I am proud of our elected officials and committees. They do a tremendous job. I applaud each one and am inspired by their dedication and service to the town.

I am especially inspired by some of the regular voices at Town Meeting. Most notably would be Thayer Warshaw. Mr. Warshaw always has the interest of the town at heart and can always be relied upon to stand up to the microphone to shed his wisdom when necessary. Fred Fitzgerald is another. Mr. Fitzgerald has volunteered countless hours to the town and always treats his fellow voters with dignity and respect. These gentlemen are truly an asset to the town - we need more of them.

I was very disturbed to read in last week's Townsmen that we were questioning whether or not Andover has outgrown our current system of self government. In my opinion, there is nothing wrong with our system. Rather, we have a problem with a few individuals who, as Mr. George Harris so eloquently stated, are trying to "usurp" town meeting.

I hope that the behavior of one or two of our citizens at last Town Meeting does not discourage anyone from attending future Town Meetings. We do not need to change our form of government but I agree with my dad who was quoted in last week's paper that "...we need education, we need publicity and we need cooperation."

I hope that our selectmen would consider adding to our talent bank a committee to promote Town Meeting by educating our newcomers and younger generation.

Andover has not outgrown town meeting, but Town Meeting needs to grow with Andover.

What's wrong with the theater?

Project Bread, officials expect 43,000 walkers to show up for this one. I probably won't be one of them, but there are several people from Andover who will.

Margot Bixby and Skip Eccles, both of Andover, are walking and trying to get others interested in doing it, too.

Margot isn't just walking the 20 miles to help feed the hungry, which is a pet project of hers. She's warming up for an even bigger walk in the fall: She hopes to walk the 26-plus miles of the Boston Marathon route in October, a fund-raiser for Dana Farber Cancer

Just one side was represented

Editor, Townsmen:

I read with great interest "Is town meeting still effective?" in the April 23 edition of the Andover Townsmen written by Don Staruk.

What started as a factual, historical and somewhat independent view of the Town Meeting principle and alternatives turned into a forum and platform from those good citizens (be they few or many, we certainly only heard from one contingent) who support this practice.

Whether the individuals interviewed in this somewhat slanted article thought there were not "any disadvantages," or they couldn't "see any other form that could be any better," or they thought "Anyone can go" or "it works," the readers were subject to only one view here.

It was somewhat later that I found two letters written to the editor which expressed different opinions on the Town Meeting in Andover.

Why didn't the writer interview the concerned individuals who took the time to express their opinions to you? Wouldn't it have made for more responsible reporting and a more balanced story if all opinions were included?

It would appear to me that more unbiased and complete reporting is called for on this issue - since it is so important to us all.

We need a parliamentary gunslinger

Editor, Townsmen:

The rough, tough Gadfly Brothers just rode into Town Meeting. The womenfolk are hugging their children. The menfolk are shocked and paralyzed. The good citizens of Andover want to take their Town Meeting back from the parliamentary outlaws.

What to do?

After talking to several town officials, it seems that we don't need new warrants, bylaws or amendments. We need a parliamentary gunslinger that can out-manuever the Gadfly Brothers.

Well, how about Clint Eastwood? I found him the Yellow Pages. He's available for hire. He's impressive.

Consider these credits to his name:

- A fistful of warrants.
- For a few amendments more, and
- High Plain Road drifter.

He was even mayor of Carmel, Calif. I'll bet the Town Meetings there go smoothly.

In all seriousness, the citizens of Andover need to take back Town Meeting. We need to run Town Meeting for the benefit of the majority, not the gadfly minority.

Let's implement some "anti-gadfly rules."

Let's be fair about user fees

Editor, Townsmen:

I followed the School Committee debate on user fees with great interest and was surprised that no one mentioned that a user fee is being paid this year.

In the past years, All-Town Middle School Jazz Band was a school-sponsored band whose members were selected by audition and who won in district jazz band competitions. Last fall, the musicians were told that jazz band was one of the programs cut (their wonderful teacher, Tom O'Toole, was laid off). After much maneuvering, the jazz band became a part of the Department of Community Services, a $95 "activity" open to all students.

We parents were happy to pay, if only to allow our kids to continue this terrific musical experience. It is not a high price to pay for a year of rehearsals and concerts. It is no longer an audition group, but Mr. Minkinen has done a terrific job with the kids and they are all enjoying playing together.

But, a fee is a fee. It can be moved to a town sponsorship, but it is still an activity that was "free" just last year and costs almost $100 a student this year.

With four children in the school system, I do not look forward to paying $100 per activity. I would prefer one set family fee limit with none of this type of sneaky manipulation. As a parent stated to the School Committee at one meeting: We are willing to pay, if it means keeping these programs for our kids. We all pay for soccer, Little League, hockey. We are willing to do so for music.

So, let's not pretend that fees are not already part of our school system. It is a reality this year.

It's time we all accepted it and the School Committee began to develop a fair system for the students and their families.

In closing, I'd like to point out that the philosophy of student self-esteem is a large part of the Andover school curriculum. For those students who are not academically gifted, the music and sports programs offer them a place to shine. Let's not deny them the opportunity to be great at something.

Help! The ants are here

Editor, Townsmen:

Outside our house daffodils are blooming, frogs are peeping from the pond across the road and robin red breast is hopping on our lawn. So to us, spring has come outside.

Inside is different. I don't know about you but in our house we wait for that little tiny black creature to invade our home. With his long troop of brothers and sisters following behind, he reaches a destination where someone has dropped food or inadvertently crumbs or sweets left behind. Then our family knows that spring has officially arrived inside our home, not a date on a calendar for our family. I talked with my sister the other day. She, too, has started wondering when she will see this little black creature marching in line with its friends and relatives for its first feast of the season at her home.

Well, last night while my daughter, Ashley, 6, was practicing the piano, she started screaming, "Ants. They're coming out of the piano." My son, Benjamin, who is 9 years old, and I ran into the room. Somebody had left a tiny bit of crumbs on the piano and end table. These ants were having a great time hauling their feast back to wherever they were going. I told the kids, "Follow the line of ants to find out from where they were coming." At this point dawn broke on marble head for Benjamin. For as soon as I said this, he went and pulled out from behind the piano, his ant jar. Benjamin's thoughts must have been, "Oh, no." A week ago I had told him that his ant jar belonged outside and that the holes in the top were too big. Now, telling him that these ants that got loose from his ant farm jar must be collected or killed, Benjamin decided to kill them.

We are still waiting for that little black creature marching in a line with friends and relatives to have its first meal in our home, telling us spring has officially arrived inside our home.

IN A PINCH

Between each of the stacked spinal bones (vertebrae) lies a cushion, or disc, which acts both as a shock absorber and universal joint. When a disc becomes structurally weak, its soft interior gel is likely to push out a protuberance in the weakened area of its fibrous coating. This protruding portion, in turn, may exert pressure on a nerve root, which then becomes inflamed and painful. This overall condition has been described as a herniated (or, inappropriately, as a "slipped") disc. By whatever name it goes, the pain may be felt not only in the lower back, but in a leg as well. This latter pain owes itself to the fact that the nerve root supplying the leg is pinched.

This a painful condition and should be attended to without delay. We will evaluate and recommend the appropriate treatment without the use of drugs or surgery. Please call for an appointment at DELORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, 475-5042, for an appointment. Our office is located at 15 Central Street. Happy Mother's Day to our patients and readers!

P.S. Weakness or loss of reflexes in a pained leg may help confirm the diagnosis of a herniated disc.

Making life better for North Andover elders

By Mary Katis

The North Andover Senior Center has the formula to help elders build a better life. The success story affects the elderly of North Andover and the people who know them. Meeting Kathleen Gorman, director of the center, and receiving her welcoming smile is part of the success story. An average of 1,000 seniors use the center each week, plus 480 people who are receiving services out in the community.

Eileen Pelletier, a volunteer receptionist, said, "I think it's a marvelous place. I'm not one to do things alone and it gives me a place to come if I want to get out and do things. The weight control and exercise programs are great."

Ms. Gorman moved to North Andover eight years ago when the Senior Center was new. She began volunteering at the Stevens Nursing Home and decided to inquire about helping at the new Senior Center.

She graduated from the College of Saint Elizabeth in New Jersey with a degree in science, specializing in nutrition. Later she continued her studies at Columbia University Graduate School Nutrition Program. When her family moved to Greensboro, N.C., she volunteered at St. Mary's Church by administering and providing services for the elderly through a group of volunteers.

Her interest expanded and developed through gerontology studies at the University of North Carolina and Northern Essex Community College. She worked for two years as director for the Council on Aging in Merrimack. She was hired as the first full-time director of the Senior Center.

"Originally, I came to the Senior Center to see if I could volunteer to be a driver," said Ms. Gorman.

In October 1991, the Massachusetts Council on Aging chose the North Andover Senior Center as recipient of the Veronica B. Smith Award. This award is given to a senior center and a center's director as a model of excellence for senior centers in the state. The Lawrence Chamber of Commerce honored the Senior Center with the Most Outstanding Work Station Award.

Jacob Freeman, a former member of the Council on Aging, a member of the North Andover Advisory Board and volunteer at the center, recommended North Andover for the statewide award. He encouraged Ms. Gorman to apply and helped with the process of documenting and fact-finding. From the 350 councils in Massachusetts, North Andover was chosen as the best in the state for diversity of services to satisfy needs of elderly, for new programs and for well-trained staff, for working with other community groups and for sound fiscal planning. Fundraising in 1991 added $13,000 to help the reduced budget.

When budget cuts caused so many senior centers to drop many of their programs, Ms. Gorman instituted three new programs at no cost to the town. These programs are a transportation program for medical and emergency purposes, nutrition and telephone reassurance programs.

Ms. Gorman has a staff of eight paid employees: a secretary, van driver, two outreach workers, a bookkeeper, Friendly Visitor coordinator and clerical staff. The programs are possible because of 263 volunteers from diverse backgrounds and talents.

A retired businessman leads a discussion group, helps with legal and medical referrals and gives time to assist an elderly person with tax forms. Alison Cepikas, a retired social worker, conducts a caregiver support group on the first Wednesday of each month; Sharon Carter, a member of the Tanglewood chorus, sings with a choral group at the center.

Mary Liccardello and Ida LaScola worked together at Grieco Brothers sewing pockets on jackets. Each week they volunteer in the kitchen, cooking lunches and preparing food for the Meals on Wheels Program.

"It keeps us going. We are widows and would have too much time on our hands," Ms. LaScola said.

Christina Witts, who worked for Western Electric for 20 years, said, "It is fulfilling to do things for others. It fills a void in your life."

Ms. Gorman noted, "Services given by volunteers amounted to approximately $195,520 for units of service."

The Four Seasons Newsletter is sent to 3,800 senior residents and supported by donations. Fifty seniors are on the newsletter staff and contribute art work, typing, writing articles, mailing labels and actual mailing. Nicholas Ventrillo comes every day to the center to fix chairs or work wherever he is needed.

"If you live in North Andover you have a good place to come to. We have the best center, good coordination, it's immaculate and I'm proud of it," he said.

Ms. Liccardello is involved with the Intergenerational Program. The seniors are helping in classrooms at five schools (elementary and middle) in North Andover. Ten seniors are tutoring students who need extra help, assisting the teacher with assignments, helping with reading and writing compositions.

"I go to pre-first and second grade to help the children and teacher," Ms. Liccardello said. "I read to the children and they read to me. I help with spelling and homework assignments. I volunteer in knitting class and help with meals for shut-ins and lunches at the center. Also, I knit afghans for Lazarus House."

Community service extends to sweaters for the homeless, contributing to the Red Cross by packaging carnations for its Valentine program, giving a hand with fundraising for local music and athletic programs, and service projects with the Boy Scouts who gave their energy to plant 600 tulip bulbs. Many seniors took an active interest in the Toys for Tots Program at Christmas time. They collected and refurbished toys and collected food for some North Andover families in need.

Elizabeth Giragosian, age 93, walks to the center when she can.

"The center gives me much comfort and I help when I can with other ladies in the kitchen," said Ms. Giragosian. "I'm helping and it's God's blessing. You print that!"

She visits the elderly on High Street where she can walk.

The Friendly Visitors Program has 65 volunteers who offer the elderly companionship and assist with food shopping or medical transportation.

"The Telephone Reassurance Program allows volunteers to talk with homebound elders to assure their safety and offer a form of companionship," said Ms. Gorman. "Some people never meet and others choose to spend more time together. Each contact is individual and supervised."

The nutrition program is the first new site in the Merrimack Valley in the last 10 years. Ms. Gorman wrote two new grants to restore the nurse's position. Meals are available for weekday lunches. Volunteers prepare additional meals for shut-ins. There are 25 health programs available: a hearing clinic, blood pressure clinic, diabetic and eye and anemia screening, and flu immunization, to name a few. The health program extends to health education: exercise and yoga, resuscitation instruction. Weight-loss and stop smoking sessions are presented by the American Cancer Society and Holy Family Hospital and Medical Center at the Senior Center four times a year.

Every week the Senior Center is the hub for social times: card playing, line dancing, art classes, educational lectures, parties and the historical quilt project. Visitors can see the center is a busy, happy place. Seniors meet in the lobby or in the library where books can be shared. The respect and exchange of greetings is comfortable and easy. The center is a place to grow and meet new people.

"I'm grateful to the board of Council on Aging to have the freedom to be creative," said Ms. Gorman. "The motivating force of my job is to provide service to make life better for other people."

State and town officials will speak at an open house Sunday, May 3, 2-4 p.m. at the Senior Center. May is Elder Americans month and a timely opportunity to publicly celebrate the state award from the Massachusetts Council on Aging.

Warriors survive anxious moments on diamond

By Rick Harrison

Justin Hesenius, an Andover pitcher, passed them high, but not the other way. Monday, surviving some anxious moments in the final two innings to register a pulsating 2-1 victory over Wilmington in the first of several showdowns during 'Separation Week' in the Merrimack Valley Conference.

Separation Week refers to what will happen at the top of the Large and Small School Divisions, with top four teams Andover, Tewksbury, Billerica and Wilmington scheduled to collide several times with first place at stake.

Andover's big win over Wilmington, along with earlier decisions against Haverhill (9-1) and Central Catholic (6-0), sent Coach Dave Bettencourt's crew into yesterday's clash with likewise unbent Billerica with a 6-0 league ledger and 9-0 overall mark.

Senior leftlander Jim Hanning was chasing his sixth victory of the season yesterday.

Wilmington was the 31st consecutive win for the Warriors, now 34-1 in their last 35, and they need just three more victories to snap Milford's modern-day state Division 1 record for consecutive wins (33).

Andover has a bye tomorrow and will jump back into action Monday when the second half of the season opens at Lowell (3:30 p.m.).

The Hanning-Hesenius tandem continued its mastery of the opposition through the first nine games.

Hanning was 5-0 and in 26 innings had allowed just nine hits and two runs while striking out 46 and walking 15.

Hesenius emerged from Wilmington with a 4-0 record, and in 28 innings had yielded 23 hits, seven earned runs, struck out 44 and walked only six.

Andover, 9-1

Justin Hesenius toyed with the Hillies, allowing only three hits while striking out 11 in six innings of work at Haverhill Stadium.

He didn't walk a batter, fanned the side in the second and fourth innings, and during one stretch whiffed five consecutive Haverhill hitters.

Andover added three runs in the fourth inning.

The Warriors' lead was 2-0 at the plate in the third inning, but it was 3-0 in four.

The teams traded first-inning runs, and from that point on it was all Golden Warriors.

With one down in the Andover second, junior Josh Nelkin was hit in the head on a pitch for the second time this season.

Nelkin suffered a minor ear drum injury, but fortunately it wasn't serious enough to get him out of the lineup.

Nelkin promptly stole second and third, two of the Warriors' 14 thefts on the afternoon, and Jim Hanning laced an RBI single to left field to put Andover ahead for good.

Hanning stole second, had third base stolen when Hillies' starting hurler Carlos Rosario uncorked a wild pitch, and scored as Jim Landry poked an RBI single past the drawn-in second baseman.

Landry stole second and third, but he was gunned down trying to score on sophomore Matt Wolcott's fielder's choice grounder.

Wolcott stole second and third but was left stranded when future Friar Bob Sheehan lined out hard to first base.

Andover added four runs as the rain got heavier in the fourth stanza.

Catcher Matt Daniels started the uprising with a sharp single to left. He stole second and scored on Nelkin's long double. Wolcott ripped a two-out RBI double to the opposite field, Sheehan plated Wolcott with a single to left, and Hesenius capped the rally with a run-scoring single after Sheehan stole second.

The final two AHS runs came in the sixth frame as Hanning rapped a leadoff single up the middle, Sheehan kept things alive with a two-out single to center, Hesenius beat out an infield smash that rescued Hanning, and Mike Daley lashed an RBI single for the ninth run.

Daley then threw some leather in the bottom of the seventh, saving at least two runs with a game ending circus catch of a bases-loaded Texas League.

With junior leftlander Scott Eggert working the final inning in relief, Haverhill jammed the bases on a single sandwiched between a pair of two-out walks.

Daley then ended it in style with a diving catch, body fully extended, of a looping fly ball down the right field line.

Girls' softball: Sweeney overpowers Knights

By Rick Harrison

Junior leftlander Lindsey Sweeney overpowered North Andover with a one-hit shutout, while swift leadoff batter Melissa McNamara and Marcia Gemmell were the offensive catalysts, as the Andover High girls' softball team registered an impressive 5-0 non-league victory over North Andover.

After scoring just two runs in its previous three games, and only 10 its first six contests this spring, the Lady Warriors finally broke out offensively against the neighboring Scarlet Knights.

Lightning-fast McNamara showed her speed by beating out three consecutive infield hits. Gemmell drilled a vicious line-drive double to key the inning that broke the game open, and the defense was flawless behind Sweeney who allowed only two balls out of the infield.

In other action during a rain-splattered school vacation week, Andover was nudged 2-1 by Tewksbury, managed just two scratch hits against Merrimack Valley Conference top pitcher Beth Love in a 3-0 loss to Large School Division co-leader Billerica, and was nipped 2-1 by Lawrence High on Monday at Hayden-Schoolfield Playstead.

Coach Ken Pellerin's squad once again, for the second straight year, has been competitive in almost every game. Only Wilmington put a hurt factors to that lopsided loss.

"I was looking for a second pitcher and didn't start Lindsey," stated Pellerin. "We were also coming off a pretty good opening game against Dracut, so I suspect our girls thought Wilmington was going to be a breeze."

On the plus side, Andover has handed Haverhill its lone loss (3-2) and played traditional powers Dracut and Methuen tough.

The Lady Warriors were 2-6 overall, including 1-6 in league play, and they were scheduled to face struggling Chelmsford yesterday.

TRYOUTS, TOURNEYS AND TRAINING

Pony League

The Andover Blue and Gold Pony League baseball teams, for youngsters ages 13-15 years, will hold their annual spring tryouts this weekend, May 23.

All 13-year-old candidates should report to the Andover High varsity field at 1 p.m. both days, while 14- and 15-year-olds should report at 3 p.m. both days.

If the turnout is large enough to warrant a third tryout, the date and time of that session will be announced on May 3.

Returning players who were on either of the two teams last summer are required to attend the tryouts.

To be eligible a youngster cannot reach his 16th birthday prior to August 1, 1992.

The Blue and Gold teams will again compete in the Suburban Pony League against teams from other towns in Eastern Massachusetts, including Reading, North Reading, Wilmington, Methuen, Lynnfield, Winthrop and Stoneham.

Andover has dominated the league since entering nine years ago, with the Gold winning the league title three times and the Blue four times. Only in 1990, when Gold ousted Blue in the playoff semifinals and then Methuen won a pair of one-run decisions over Gold in the title series, has Andover failed to win the league crown.

The two teams have also won their respective regular-season division championships almost every year.

Andover Gold also won three consecutive Greater-Lawrence League titles before the switch was made to the Suburban Pony League.

Approximately 90 per cent of the players on the Andover High varsity baseball team each year are graduates of the Blue and Gold. That figure held true on last spring's state Division 1 championship team, and only two players (both reserves) on this year's undefeated Andover High team did not play Pony League.

Head coaches once again will be Dan Grams (Gold) and Joe Iarrobino (Blue).

Basketball

The third annual Andover Boys Basketball School, directed by Andover High varsity Coach Dave Fazio, will run for two outstanding weeks July 13-17 and July 20-24.

The school, for boys ages seven to 17 years, will have daily sessions at Andover High from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Camp features include grouping by age and ability, guest speakers, individual video taping for instructional purposes, specialized instruction for guards and forwards, drill stations, individual evaluations, games, 1-on-1 contest, foul shooting contest, situation games, free camp T-shirt and special awards for the "Camper-of-the-Day."

"Each camper will be given instruction with the emphasis on hard work and sound fundamentals," said Coach Fazio. "We believe these are the key ingredients for any basketball player to improve his game. Our objective is to strive to make each camper a complete player."

"We will always bring in the best coaches available," added Fazio, "and their goal will be helping each camper improve his game."

Each camper is required to provide his own transportation and lunch.

Interested youngsters are encouraged to apply early because enrollment is limited.

The cost is $95 per week or $175 for both weeks.

Checks may be made payable to: Andover Basketball School, 106 Union Street, North Andover, Ma. 01845.

Anyone wishing further information should call Dave Fazio at (508) 683-1966.

Miles will be accurately marked and times and water will be available at each mile mark.

The male and female overall winners will receive trophies as will the winners in each age division (17 and under, 18-29, 30-39, 40-49, 50-59, and over 60). Second and third finishers overall and in each age category will also receive awards. Everyone who completes the course will receive a certificate.

Tennis teams continue to toy with opponents

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High boys' and girls' tennis teams, continuing to roll through the Merrimack Valley Conference like touring professionals toying with second-rate club players, were scheduled to face their first serious competition yesterday when both teams squared off against Chelmsford.

The undefeated Andover and Chelmsford boys were tied for first place entering their match, both at 6-0, with the results yesterday and in the May 20 rematch at Andover expected to determine the league championship.

The Andover girls, meanwhile, were also 6-0 entering their clash with Chelmsford, whose 6-1 record was blemished only by a tough 3-2 loss to unbeaten Lowell (6-0).

Since Lowell visits Andover tomorrow afternoon (3:30 p.m., high school courts), it will be back-to-back showdowns for the Lady Warriors.

The Andover girls won three more 5-0 decisions recently over Tewksbury, Billerica and Lawrence, while the boys also white washed Billerica and Lawrence 5-0.

Coach Tony Russo's Lady Warriors had not lost a set this season as they entered the Chelmsford match, while Coach Mike Wartman's boys had five shutouts and a 4-1 triumph over Haverhill.

The boys are 113-7 in their last 120 MVC matches and 134-14 overall including tournament play the last seven years.

The girls are 96-1 in their last 97 league encounters and 102-6 including tourney action.

Next Monday the AHS boys are at Central Catholic while the girls have a bye, while Wednesday both Andover teams travel to Wilmington and on Thursday Haverhill comes to Andover.

Andover girls

Sophomore No. 1 Alison Georgian, senior Co-Captain Kim Heller and sophomore Carrie Green lost only two games in six sets as they coasted past their Billerica opponents in singles.

Georgian blitzed previously undefeated Sindi Boudreau 6-0, 6-0. No. 2 Heller performed the same 6-0, 6-0 surgery on the Indians' Kathy Doyle, and No. 3 Green showed a little compassion with a 6-0, 6-2 romp over Julie Gibson.

In doubles, senior Natalie LeMaitre and junior Kara Gack improved to 3-0 as they slugged Lauren Sage and Casey Mahoney 6-0, 6-2 in their debut at No. 1.

Sagine Shetty and Laura Cavicchi filled the No. 2 doubles position nicely as they completed the straight set sweep with a 7-5, 6-2 triumph over Billerica's Karen Rivard and Patty Morrison.

Kim Heller stepped in at No. 1 against Tewksbury and easily disposed of Kerry O'Brien 6-0, 6-0, while Carrie Green won for the second time at No. 2 with a 6-0, 6-2 romp over Amy Smith.

Jackie LeMaitre completed another singles' sweep with a 6-4, 6-2 decision over Jen Brooks.

In doubles, Julie Doherty and Beth Everett remained untouchable with a 6-0, 6-0 annihilation of Kristen Ford and Laurie Simmer.

The No. 2 tandem of Sagine Shetty and Laura Cavicchi chalked up the third 6-0, 6-0 blitz of the match by humbling Kristen Hodges and Marylin Garrett.

Andover dropped just five games in singles and three in doubles against Lawrence.

Alison Georgian (5-0), whose lone singles loss in two years was to the Lancers' Jolie Stadelman, found Bridget Shine a much easier 6-0, 6-0 target at first singles.

Carrie Green (5-0) stymied Magalia Ruiz 6-2, 6-2, and Jackie LeMaitre (3-0) toppled Nhi Ly 6-1, 6-0.

Beth Everett and Julie Doherty (5-0) continued as the league's top doubles tandem with a 6-0, 6-0 romp over Kelly Aziz and Aida Bacz, and Natalie LeMaitre teamed with Kara Gack (4-0) for a 6-0, 6-3 waltz past Binh La and My Duong.

Andover boys

The Golden Warriors came back from an eight-day layoff showing no signs of staleness, winning everything in straight sets against Billerica.

For the fifth consecutive match Paul Bernardin, Eric Block and Dan Queen cruised past their sin noon at the West Middle School field (3:30 p.m.), and begins the second half of the season next Monday when Dracut comes to town.

"If we can score some runs we're going to do fine," said Coach Pellerin. "We're making the plays defensively, Lindsey's pitching has been solid, and Julie DiLiegro is doing an outstanding job behind the plate."

"DiLiegro, (Melissa) McNamara and (Meghan) Mueller have really improved. It's the first time in my three years that the seniors have really come to play," noted Pellerin.

The spring semester is always a tough one for senior athletes, who understandably have trouble concentrating with graduation, college and the prom among the many distractions.

Sweeney has pitched all but a portion of the Wilmington blowout, and her statistics are much better than her win-loss record. In the first eight games (through Lawrence) she hurled 46 innings, yielding just 31 hits and 11 earned runs while walking only 18 and striking out 38. Her earned run average (ERA) was a crisp 1.67.

McNamara, wisely moved to the leadoff spot in the Tewksbury game, paces the Lady Warriors in hitting with 8-for-18 and a .444 average.

"Mac's been on base nine times in 13 at-bats since I moved her," said Pellerin. "Lindsey's getting her bat on the ball but so far the hits aren't dropping as often as they should, and Marcia (Gemmell) is starting to come alive. I expect those two to hit consistently the rest of the season."

Through seven games Sweeney was the second leading batter, and the only other player over .300, with 8-for-21 for a .381 mark.

"We soundly outplayed both Tewksbury and North Andover, but only split the two games because we were scratching for basehits."

"We have a number of goals to shoot for this spring," said Coach Pellerin. "The seven wins last season were the most for an Andover High softball team in 14 years. So we're out to win more than seven games, and we're still shooting for a place in the tournament. It won't be easy but it's possible."

"We're playing decent ball and the girls are feeling pretty good about themselves."

Andover, 5-0

Lindsey Sweeney allowed only a check-swing bloop hit over first baseman Meghan Mueller's head in the first inning, and then blanked North Andover on no hits the rest of the way.

Sweeney, who had errorless ball played behind her, walked three and struck out six.

The Lady Warriors broke open a scoreless game with three runs in the bottom of the fourth. Junior Gina Paone walked, stole second and scored on Marcia Gemmell's rocket-shot double over the shortstop's out-stretched glove.

Andover added a pair of unearned insurance runs in the fifth when balls hit by Sweeney, Gemmell and junior Sharon Su were misplayed by the Lady Knights' infield.

Melissa McNamara had three of the locals' five hits, all infield singles that she legged out, while Gemmell and designated hitter Fox produced the other safeties.

McNamara was not slowed down despite suffering a "vicious knee scrape" while sliding into third base midway through the game.

Defensively Su made a nice running catch in centerfield and Meghan Mueller was sharp at first base.

The "daily rain" was well-timed, starting just moments after the final out.

Tewksbury, 2-1

Lindsey Sweeney deserved a better fate after tossing a complete-game four-hitter, walking just one and whiffing eight.

Amy French of Tewksbury was equally stingy, however, as she twirled a route-going three-hitter.

Only one of the Tewksbury runs was earned,

Andover suffering an uncharacteristic fielding lapse in the fourth frame when three errors were committed and both Redgals' runs scored.

The Lady Warriors inched ahead 1-0 in the third when Melissa McNamara drew one of her three walks, Meghan Mueller bunted her to second and Sweeney spanked an RBI single.

Marcia Gemmell followed with a base hit, putting runners at the corners, but the rally ended with a line drive out to third base.

Andover's only other serious threat came in the first inning when McNamara walked, raced all the way to third on Sharon Su's bunt, but was eventually tagged out in a rundown between third and home as Lindsey Sweeney (walk) stole second base.

"That one was my fault," admitted Coach Pellerin. "I sent Mac (home) when I shouldn't have."

Andover managed just three singles, with Julie DiLiegro getting one.

Meghan Mueller once again played a strong defensive game at first base.

Billerica, 3-0

Beth Love, who has already thrown three shutouts and a pair of one-hitters in Billerica's first seven games, struck out nine and limited the Lady Warriors to a pair of scratch hits.

Lindsey Sweeney surrendered five hits and struck out six, but her five walks were the most she's issued in a game this season.

The Indians (6-1) scored twice in the fourth on a triple, single, sacrifice and error, then added an insurance run in the fifth.

Sweeney and Sharon Su had the only hits for Andover.

The Lady Warriors' lone scoring opportunity came in the bottom of the third when Su beat out a bunt, stole second and tried to score on a wild throw by the catcher.

"She beat the return throw home," said Coach Pellerin, "but was tagged out because the Billerica catcher blocked the plate and Sharon never touched it. Her slide left her a couple inches short."

Catcher Julie DiLiegro, who has gunned down 13-of-15 would-be basestealers, played a strong defensive game for Andover.

Lawrence, 2-1

The tight, low-scoring games continued as Lancers' hurler Carrie Higginbottom scattered seven hits to outduel Lindsey Sweeney.

Sweeney was again superb with a four-hitter, three walks and four strikeouts. Only one Lawrence run was earned.

The winners scored both runs early, notching an unearned tally in the first and the eventual insurance run in the bottom of the second stanza.

The Lady Warriors countered with their only run in the fourth when Sweeney walked, Gina Paone walked and Marcia Gemmell ripped an RBI single.

A sacrifice advanced Paone and Gemmell into scoring position, but Higginbottom got tough and whiffed the next two batters.

Andover had numerous chances to score, leaving runners at second and third twice (first and fourth frames) and loading the bases without hitting paydirt in the fateful seventh.

With two outs in the seventh Meghan Mueller singled, Lindsey Sweeney singled and Paone walked to load the bases. Marcia Gemmell hit the ball sharply to second base, but the play was made to end the game.

DH Mindy Fox and Sweeney both finished the game a perfect 2-for-2, while Kim Sullivan added a safety.

Fielding standouts were third baseman Sullivan and pitcher Sweeney.

The game may have been costly because Melissa McNamara was grounded by a twisted ankle.

She had once again reached base three straight times, walking twice and being hit with a pitch, but she re-scraped her knee and twisted an ankle sliding into second base on a steal attempt.

Mac's availability has been on a day-to-day basis since that game.

batter and struck out four.

"Matt's a very smart pitcher who seldom makes the same mistake twice," said Wilmington Coach Dick Scanlon. "He's always around the plate and throws a sneaky fast ball, knuckler, curve and change. He won't beat himself."

That same exact description also fits Justin Hesenius almost perfectly, so an out standing mound matchup was expected.

Hesenius sailed through the first five innings, surrendering only a long first stanza double to Bob Fleming that may have eluded left fielder Matt Wolcott because he had to circle the Andover junior varsity center fielder while pursuing the ball.

The Warrior hurler entered the sixth with a one-hit shutout and 3-0 lead.

In that sixth Hesenius showed some true grit, digging his own grave and then climbing out of it.

McManus and Derrick Stokes opened the inning by reaching on rare back-to-back AHS infield errors, and then Bob Beals beat out what was supposed to be a sacrifice bunt to load the bases with no one out.

With the heart of the Wilmington order at the plate, Hesenius went to his curve and had the aggressive batters lunging at bad pitches.

He fanned the Wildcats' No. 3 and 4 hitters, and completed the gutsy comeback by retiring Kevin MacArthur on a 3-2 full count popup to shortstop Sheehan.

In the Wilmington seventh Hesenius, who threw 115 pitches, opened by walking Bob Aprile and yielding a line single to centerfielder by Jim Medeiros.

A strikeout was followed by Matt McManus's RBI single to center field, spoiling the shutout and putting the tying run aboard.

Derrick Stokes erased McManus at second base for the second out, with Medeiros scoring the second run.

When Bob Beals followed with a single it put the go-ahead run aboard with two down.

Hesenius then ended any thoughts about the win streak being snapped by Wilmington when he struck out the next batter to end the game.

Andover, which managed just five singles off McManus, took a 2-0 lead in the bottom of the first.

Jim Landry grounded a solid single to center field, Matt Wolcott reached on a costly catcher's interference, Landry took third on a passed ball, and Bob Sheehan's fielder's choice grounder rescued the first run.

Sheehan then stole second and crossed on Mike Daley's (ninth RBI) single to shallow center.

McManus then set down 11 of the next 12 batters until the fifth, when Jim Hanning nicked him for an infield hit to deep short.

He stole second and rode home with the eventual winning run on Matt Wolcott's opposite-field single to right.

That made it 3-0 and set the stage for Wilmington's late theatrics in the sixth and seventh.

Landry finished the game 2-for-3 and Matt Daniels played well defensively at catcher.

with three safeties, while Hanning and Sheehan added two each.

Daley's grab was the defensive highlight Andover, 6-0

Jim Hanning (5-0), still fighting the flu and making his second start of the week, threw 104 pitches and struggled to keep the shutout against stubborn Central Catholic at Merrimack College.

He yielded just one harmless seeing-eye single to centerfielder by Bill Gallagher, leading off the second, and struck out 10.

But he also issued eight walks on the raw day, more than he had given in 20 previous innings, and Hanning pitched out of jams in the second, third and fifth frames.

In the second CCHS had runners at second and third with no one out, but an infield tapper to third baseman Chris Lembo, a strikeout and a long flyball out to rightfielder Justin Hesenius ended that threat.

The University of Maine recruit walked two in the third, but ultimately struck out Gallagher with men at second and third. Central loaded the bases with three consecutive two-out walks in the fifth, but again Hanning found the K pitch when he needed it.

The ace southpaw, who has permitted just two runs all year, extended his shutout streak to 13 consecutive innings.

The Golden Warriors scored a pair of unearned runs off Central tough-luck hurler Dave Lacroix in the top of the third.

Jim Landry drew a one-out walk, stole second, and moved to third base on Matt Wolcott's long flyball out to right field.

Bob Sheehan then lofted what appeared to be a routine fly to center field, but the ball was dropped as Landry scored and Sheehan hit at first base. He then stole second and raced across on Hesenius's line single to right.

Four runs in the sixth wrapped it up.

Hesenius walked, pinch-runner Paul Allard took second on a balk, and Mike Daley walked for the third straight time to chase Lacroix from the mound.

Matt Daniels greeted reliever Joe Bozek with a timely two-run single, after Chris Lembo moved the runners along with a sacrifice bunt.

Josh Nelkin then singled, and Hanning completed the scoring with a solid two-run double up the left-center field gap.

Scott Eggert once again relieved in the seventh, yielding a single and walk before finishing with a flourish by striking out the final batter.

Josh Nelkin was the only player on either side with more than one hit.

Andover, 3-2

Wilmington came to town undefeated in league play (4-0) and 7-1 overall, the lone loss 3-2 in nine innings to Malden Catholic. Starting pitcher Matt McManus, a businesslike senior righthander who was 4-0 this spring and 12-3 the past two years, was more effective than any other pitcher thus far against Andover.

He yielded just five singles, didn't walk a

Frosh rebound from loss with solid win

By Rick Harrison

Left-hander Tom Gardner tossed a four-hitter to get the Andover High fresh man baseball team back on its feet this week, as the Young Warriors rebounded from a 5-1 loss to Central Catholic with a solid 12-4 triumph over Wilmington.

The split left Coach Ken Maglio's frosh with a 3-2 overall record heading into yesterday's game at Chelmsford.

Tomorrow afternoon Andover returns to action against the same Wilmington crew at the West Middle School field (3:30 p.m.).

Andover, 12-4

Tom Gardner (1-0) debuted on the mound with a route-going effort, striking out four and walking five.

The Young Warriors scored in every inning, breaking it open with four runs in the fourth after striking for three in the first and single runs in the second and third stanzas.

The game was halted after six innings because of a 5:30 p.m. curfew.

Andover managed just five hits but took advantage of some sloppy Wilmington play.

Danny Hansberry led the attack with a double, single and one RBI. Ryan Moynihan and Pat Walsh lashed two-run singles, and Jason Veilleux added a base hit.

Chris Brown was a defensive standout at first base.

Central Catholic, 5-1

The visiting Red Raider freshmen, coached by Andover High boys' varsity basketball skipper Dave Fazio (Central graduate), jumped on the Warriors for five runs in the top of the first inning and made the lead stand up.

Left-hander Chris Brown was brilliant in relief, tossing seven innings of four-hit ball.

But the damage had already been done.

Andover managed just two hits in the game, singles to centerfield by Danny Hansberry and Paul Cassidy.

The lone run for the locals came in the sixth when Ryan Moynihan walked, stole second, stole third and continued home on the catcher's overthrow.

Another miracle finish began to take shape in the seventh inning, with the rain pelted down.

Pat Walsh led off by reaching on an outfield error, Tom Tanin bounced into a fielder's choice, and walks to Paul Cassidy and Tom Gardner loaded the bases with one out.

But the threat went by the boards when the final two batters fanned and grounded out sharply to second base.

Pat Walsh played well defensively at third base for Andover.

'Andover JV's defeat Central, Haverhill

By Rick Harrison

Outstanding pitching performances by sophomore righthanders Todd Murray and Tim Caverly sparked the Andover High junior varsity baseball team to victories over Central Catholic (1-0) and Haverhill (6-5) last week.

The Andover JVs also dropped decisions to Methuen (8-4) and Wilmington (3-1).

The split left Coach Dan Grams's club at the .500 mark, 4-4 overall, as they prepared to battle Billerica yesterday.

Included in the record are consecutive season-opening non-league victories over Gloucester (9-0) and Alvirne High of Hudson, N.H. (8-2).

Andover, 1-0

Sophomore Todd Murray was brilliant as he made his first high school start, a memorable one, stopping Central Catholic with a one-hit shutout at O'Connell Field.

Murray, who had pitched in relief against Lowell in the Merrimack Valley Conference opener, was overpowering as he fanned 10 and issued just one walk.

The lone Warriors' run came without benefit of a hit. Toby Guzowski drew a one-out walk, the fleet sophomore advanced to second on Andy Brown's sacrifice, and he raced home on a throwing error.

In the sixth catcher Damon Bellorado launched a long triple, but he was cut down at home plate trying to stretch it to a home run.

The locals had three runners aboard on walks in both the first and third innings, but both times left the bases loaded.

Todd Murray also led the offense with a pair of singles, while other basehits went to Sam McLellan, Tim Caverly and Jeff Lembo.

Doug Batchelder was a defensive standout at shortstop.

Andover, 6-5

The Golden Warriors spotted host Haverhill a 1-0 lead in the first, erupted to score four runs in the third and one in the fourth.

The Hillies bounced back to tie 5-5 with four in the bottom of the fourth, setting the stage for Andover's dramatic seventh-inning victory.

Sophomore righty Tim Caverly went the distance on a five-hitter, yielding just one earned run while whiffing nine and walking one.

In the seventh Toby Guzowski walked, stole second, took third on a wild pitch, and scored the game-winner on Damon Bellorado's sacrifice fly.

In the bottom of the seventh Haverhill threatened to send it to extra innings, getting a runner to second base on an error and wild pitch before Caverly reared back and struck out the side.

Chris O'Connell went 3-for-3 with a double, Bobby Daley doubled, and other basehits were laced by Andy Brown, Jeff Lembo and Guzowski.

Methuen, 8-4

The Rangers used three-run innings in the second and fourth stanzas as the springboard to victory.

Jeff Lembo hurled the first five innings and permitted all eight runs (three earned), striking out four and walking three.

Tim Caverly mopped up with two frames of strong one-hit, three-strikeout relief.

Lembo led the attack with a perfect 4-for-4, including a double, and one RBI.

Guzowski tripled, Steve Marchlik doubled and singles were added by Chris O'Connell, Sam McLellan and Caverly.

Helen Rose was a member of the sports massage team for the running of the 96th Boston Marathon. This was her fourth year as part of the team which gave 320 pre-race massages in Hopkinton and more than 800 post-race massages at the YWCA in Boston. Helen calculates that she massaged 10 pre-race runners and 25 post-race runners, meeting people from Ireland, Australia, California and Canada, as well as Boston. Ms. Rose has been practicing massage in Andover for 2 1/2 years at Healing Hands on North Main Street.

Brian Mayberry named to All-Scholastic swim team

Brian Mayberry, a senior at Andover High School, was named to the 1992 Boston Globe All-Scholastic boys' swimming team.

Mayberry, a three-time Merrimack Valley all-star, won state titles in both the 50 and 100 freestyle and led his team to a fifth-place finish in the state finals. His personal bests are 21.75 in the 50 freestyle and 47.42 in the 100 freestyle. The first Andover swimmer to win a state crown, Mayberry plans to attend Fordham, Rutgers, Miami or UMass to study business management and sciences.

Girls' track wins State Class B Relays

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High girls' track team added an impressive feather to its cap last Saturday when it won the State Class B Relays, a victory that highlighted a turnaround week that also saw the Lady Warriors stop Billerica 78-58 for their first dual meet triumph of the season.

The AHS boys, meanwhile, rolled over outclassed Billerica 102-43 in their Merrimack Valley Conference dual meet and then settled for second place behind powerhouse Reading High in the State Class B Relays at Eugene V. Lovely oval.

The girls edged runner-up Norwood High by three points, 63-60, in the 21 school Class B Relay field. The boys finished 13 points behind Reading, 88-75, in their division of the meet.

Both meets were contested in miserable weather with raw winds and cold rain making it difficult for the athletes to produce top performances.

One who was not affected, however, was Steve Shepard who produced his third triple win of the dual meet campaign and then uncoiled for two outstanding leaps in the State Relays.

Both Andover teams returned to the MVC Large School Division dual meet wars yesterday, hosting Chelmsford, and next Wednesday the boys entertain Central Catholic while the girls have a bye.

The AHS boys were 3-0 overall and the girls 1-2-0 as they faced Chelmsford. In the division both were unbeaten at 1-0-0.

The next big meet will be the annual Andover Boosters Invitational on Saturday, May 9 beginning at 10 a.m.

Andover girls

Billerica actually had more first place finishes than the Lady Warriors (8-7), but Andover knocked 'em dead with 11 seconds, 10 thirds and sweeps of the long jump and 100-meter hurdles.

Senior Captain Jill Ippolito and sophomore Stacey Lavoie were double winners to pace the 78-58 triumph.

Ippolito returned to her winning ways with firsts in the 100-meter dash (12.9) and long jump (14'11"), and she also anchored the victorious 4x100 meter sprint relay team that included underclassmen Amy Levesque, Alex Wendt and Chrissie Donovan (53.4).

Lavoie mastered the field in the triple jump (32'6") and 100-meter hurdles (15.9).

Other individual winners for AHS were undefeated Co-Captain Holly Clark in the 300-meter intermediate hurdles (49.4) and sophomore sensation Sarah Witman in the 400-meter dash (63.8).

Completing the sweep of the long jump were Co-Captain Layne Whitley (14'10") and freshman prospect Rebecca Goldenberg (14'0"), while 2-3 in the high hurdles were stellar senior Kasie Kearins (17.0) and Chrissie Donovan (17.9).

Kearins, Whitley and junior Kerry Hagerty all nailed down a pair of second place finishes.

Kasie was also runner-up in the triple jump (30'6"), Layne in the 400 meters (65.0), and Kerry grabbed second in both the discus (84'6") and javelin (82'0") toss-

Billericia, whose strength lies in the distance events, had Laura Traynham running a 5:35 mile and Sherri Beck an 11:36 deuce.

Rebecca Goldenberg contributed a third place in the 300-meter hurdles (52.8), while other thirds went to junior shot putter Nicole Kelley (27'8"), senior Grace Perry in the javelin (80'3"), high jumper Carolyn Valle (4'4"), sprinter Jamie Barron in the 100 meters (13.2), Amy Levesque in the 200 meters (28.2), miler Kelly Cronin (6:19) and sophomore two miler Amanda Grasso (13:20).

Andover boys

The Golden Warriors rolled to their third consecutive one-sided victory, winning 13 of 17 events and sweeping the long jump, triple jump and mile.

In the seven field events Andover piled up a hefty 47-16 scoring edge, while a 55-27 advantage in the running events completed the 102-43 romp.

Triple threat Steve Shepard was again immense with victories in the long jump (19'7"), triple jump (40'1") and 300-meter intermediate hurdles (41.0).

Jason McCue earned his usual double in the 110-meter high hurdles (15.3) and 200-meter dash (23.0).

Senior Co-Captain Jamie Damon won the 100-meter sprint (11.1) and anchored the triumphant 4x100 meter relay crew that also boasted junior Brian Croteau, senior Matt Harris and sophomore Rob Weisman (46.2).

Other AHS victors were junior shot putter Sean O'Leary (41'11"), who won it on his final toss, senior Bob Dalton in the discus (119'9"), senior Barrett Elliot in the javelin (148'10"), junior Colin Arseneault in the 400 meters (54.1), junior miler Brian Twomey (4:48.0) and senior Co-Captain Jeremy Roux in the two-mile (10:41.0).

The same two athletes trailed Shepard to complete sweeps of the long jump and triple jump, John Hess soaring 19'6" in the long and 39'8" in the triple while senior Chris Pothier was 19'2" and 38'10" in the respective events.

Completing the sweep of the mile were Chad Collins (5:09) and Ben Moyer (5:16).

Other runners-up were junior shot putter J.P. Ciruso (41'6"), senior Todd Allard who was less than two feet shy of Elliot in the javelin (147'2"), junior Andy Leinson in the high jump (5'6"), senior Steve Bernard in the pole vault (10'6"), Matt Harris in the 100 meters (11.7), freshman Matt Ely in the 800 meters (2:09) and Mark Adams in the two-mile (10:55).

Rounding out the pointscorers with additional thirds were Phil Smith in the discus (111'0"), junior Mike O'Sullivan in the high jump (5'4"), Peter Murphy in the 200 meters (24.7) and Co-Captain Mike Gaimo in the 800 meters (2:10).

State Class B Relays

The Andover girls chalked up 63 points to win the team crown in a very competitive Class B Meet at Andover High.

The top five teams were only 15 points apart as runner-up Norwood finished with 60 points, third-place Tewksbury had 55, fourth-place Reading 50 and fifth place Woburn 48.

The Lady Warriors have won this title several times before, the most recent being in 1990.

The boys' division was strictly a two team dogfight, and when it was over Haverhill Invitational champ Andover finished 13 points behind Reading as the Rockets piled up 88 points and the Warriors 75.

"The girls' victory wasn't totally unexpected, but based on our first three meets I wouldn't have bet on it," said Coach Dick Collins. "We had lost a couple of clifhangers to good teams in dual meets, and finished second at the Wilmington Invitational. But this meet is different because you need a lot of kids contributing to score well."

"Our girls only won two events, but we placed in 10 and had 25 different people involved in the points. The boys won four events, scored in 14 of 15, and had 34 different athletes contribute. That's an awful lot of pointscorers. But the boys faced an awesome team in Reading, and we didn't get much help from other schools as far as taking points away from Reading," explained Collins.

The boys' track team rolled to their third consecutive one-sided victory, winning 13 of 17 events and sweeping the long jump, triple jump and mile.

"I'd say we gave them one helluva battle to only lose by 13 points."

Andover's top individual performer in the Class B Relays was Steve Shepard, who ignored the weather to soar 44'6" in the triple jump and 22'1" in the long jump.

Shepard also cleared 44 feet in the Bay State Games last summer, but this marked the first time he had done it for Andover High.

He is still shy of the school record of 46'7" held by Paul Farnham. The only other Warrior to surpass 46 feet was Leon Sharpe whose 46'2" leap was the school mark before Farnham arrived.

Placing first for the Andover girls was the 4x100 meter shuttle hurdles quartet of Kasie Kearins, Holly Clark, Chrissie Donovan and Stacey Lavoie.

They clocked 70.2 officially after being forced to run the race twice.

"The first time they ran three seconds faster," noted Coach Collins, "but (assistant coach) Peter Comeau noticed that one set of hurdles was out of place. It was obvious when they ran the race because all four girls messed up on their footwork. But they still managed to run a great time."

"After we found out the hurdles were out of place they had to run the race all over again about five minutes later. They were tired, which accounts for the slower time, but they still managed to win."

The other girls' victory came in the distance medley where Kelly Cronin, Sarah Wallace, Amanda Holmes and Amanda Grasso combined for a 14:08 time.

Tewksbury won four events, but as Redgals' coach and Andover resident Bob MacDougall noted: "Andover nickle-and-dimed us to death with all those third and fourth, place finishes."

The Lady Warriors actually added three second places in the 4x100, 4x200 and 4x400 relays.

Amy Levesque, Alex Wendt, Jamie Barron and Jill Ippolito covered the 4x100 in 51.5, while Layne Whitley joined Levesque, Wendt and Ippolito on the 4x200 team that clocked 1:43.7.

Whitley then stepped in with Holly Clark, Sarah Witman and Stacey Lavoie on the 4x100 crew (4:21.2).

The champs placed third in the javelin, long jump and high jump.

In the jav Kerry Hagerly, Grace Perry and Joanna Moynihan combined to throw 226'7," while long jumpers Ippolito, Whitley and Rebecca Goldenberg leapt 16'1" and high jumpers Carolyn Lavoie, Sarah Tully and Catherine Cornell soared 13'0."

Rounding out the AHS girls' scorers in fourth were the sprint medley and 4x 1 mile crews.

Witman, Donovan, Barron and Leigh Clarke clocked 4:40.0 in the sprint medley, while the four-mile team of Clarke, Amanda Holmes, Amanda Grasso and Ellen Sullivan was timed in 24:25.

The Andover boys won the long jump, triple jump, pole vault and 4x100 meter sprint relay.

The long jump totaled 62 feet with Steve Shepard covering 22'1", John Hess 20'0" and Chris Pothier 19'11," while triple jumpers Shepard (44'7"), Pothier (40'4") and Hess (40'3") combined for a distance of 125'2."

Coach Collins entered his elite 4x100 relay team and they didn't disappoint as Jason McCue, Matt Harris, Rob Weisman and Jamie Damon finished in 45.0."

In the pole vault Tadg Corkery, Steve Kulczar and Steve Bernard all cleared 10'0" for a 30-foot total.

AHS took second place in the shuttle hurdles with McCue, junior Jon Cirella, junior Eric Fox and senior Jamie Humber crossing in 65.2.

The only third place was taken by the 4x200 team of Damon, Peter Murphy, Harris and Shepard in 1:36.3.

There were a trio of fourth places.

In the shot put J.P. Ciruso, Sean O'Leary and Brian Adams threw 123'9," with Ciruso unloading a 43'7" toss and O'Leary a 42'6" heave.

In the javelin it was Todd Allard, Barrett Elliot and Ted Ratyna going 409'4," while the sprint medley squad of Mike Gaimo, Peter Murphy, Weisman and Colin Arseneault crossed in 3:53.3.

Andover was fifth in four events.

Discus throwers Bob Dalton, Mark Sobieck and Phil Smith totaled 324'3," while high jumpers Andy Leinson, Mike O'Sullivan and Larry Gibson cleared a composite height of 16'4."

The 4x400 meter relay team of Gaimo, Cirella, Gibson and Arseneault was fifth in 3:41.8, while the distance medley foursome of Matt Ely, Co-Captain Ryan Kelly, Jeremy Roux and Brian Twomey finished in 11:47.9.

Completing the scorers with a sixth was the 4x 1 mile team of Chad Collins, Mark Adams, Ben Moyer and Twomey in 20:43.1.

nament before falling to eventual winner St. Mark's.

"Kevin was our top two-way player this season, and has been a great contributor over his four years at Holderness," said coach Tom Eccleston. The senior was the team's second leading scorer, tallying 22 goals and 32 assists this year and finished in sixth place on Holderness' career scoring list.

Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Smith of Gina Jo Way.

Holderness is an independent college-preparatory boarding school located in Plymouth, N.H.

Attention writers

The Townsmen is grateful for the stories about sporting events many Andover residents write for the sports section.

However, many sports stories are sent to the newspaper with out a name and phone number, which the paper needs in case there is a question.

In addition, many sports stories arrive without the sport ever being mentioned. Often, the reader can figure out what sport it is, but the sport and the group's real name, Andover Youth Soccer, for instance, should be mentioned early in the story.

BUSINESS PROFILES

Owner Sharon Mambro
Sharon's Vintage Jewelry & Antiques

Sharon's Vintage Jewelry & Antiques is a place to treat yourself to the fun and nostalgia of reminiscing as you walk through the treasures of yesterday. North Andover resident Sharon Mambro and her partner Arthur Laflamme have gathered memorabilia for this shop that opened last February in North Andover. They buy and sell things old and unusual. Sharon will delight you as she relates the histories of merchandise on display.

There is a collection of costume and estate jewelry dating from the mid 1800s to yesterday's fashions. Their consultant identifies and dates stones and metals and they offer a guarantee on stones. Jewelry includes cameos, sterling silver, semi-precious and precious stones, gold, character pins, jeweled and enameled brooches and pave pins. The jewelry is sentimental, fun and fanciful. Prices range from $1.00 to $800.00.

Other memorabilia on display are vintage clothing, glass beaded pocketbooks, crystal, player piano rolls, readable and collectible books, china, pottery, dolls, photographs, post cards, exquisite hand crocheted lace and tablecloths and other sundries. Selected pieces of furniture are also for sale. These items represent Victorian, art deco, country collectibles and art nouveau.

Remember Sharon's Vintage Jewelry & Antiques as you search for that unique gift for Mothers' Day, show-ers, brides, birthdays, and that special glitz that is so fashionable for proms this season.

Sharon invites the public to come in and browse. She will charm you with her knowledge and enthusiasm. A library of reference books is available for customers use.

Sharon's Vintage Jewelry & Antiques is located at Frye's Courthouse, 143 Main Street (on the corner of Main Street and Second Street, use the Second Street entrance) on the second floor, North Andover. Hours are Tuesday through Saturday 1 to 5 p.m. (Check for Sunday and Monday openings) Telephone: (508) 975-1613.

ANDOVER BANK MORTGAGE APPLICATION APPROVED

When choosing a bank for your mortgage, cost and approval are your most important considerations. So we work overtime to design mortgage alternatives that keep your costs down. For example, our Rollover Option is a rate option plan that enables you to lock in a rate during the application process for as long as 60 days. If rates decrease, you can take advantage of the lower rate (one time only) up to five business days prior to closing. And if rates should increase, Andover Bank guarantees you won't go above the rate offered when you applied.

You'll find that an Andover Bank mortgage has no application fee, no secondary market fee, no documentation fee, no escrow maintenance fee, and a very competitive rate. Even after you move into your new home, you will continue to deal directly with Andover Bank for all your mortgage servicing needs. After all, it's my job to see that you get exactly what you want — an approved mortgage at the lowest possible cost.

Chapter 766 law would tighten eligibility

public-school students received special-education service of some kind, she said. Those services can range from tutoring to separate special education classroom teaching mixed with mainstreaming into regular education classrooms, to completely separate classrooms within the town's eight public schools or placement outside the town to private facilities.

According to Ms. French, 13 percent of school-age children in town receive special-education services of some kind.

New regulations, mandated in a bill signed by Gov. Weld in January, aim to redefine the eligibility requirements for special education, reduce the number of students receiving services and save money. The goal is to weed out students referred to special-education classes for occasional outbursts or unmanageable behavior, rather than for recurring and seriously disruptive behavior.

The bill also calls for more teacher training to prepare regular education teachers to better handle special-education students in their classrooms.

The proposal defines a child in need of special education as "a school-age child who, because of a disability consisting of a developmental delay or an intellectual, sensory, neurological, emotional, communication, physical, specific learning or health impairment of combination thereof, is unable to progress effectively in regular education and requires special-education services in order to successfully develop the child's individual educational potential."

During the past month, the state Department of Education has been soliciting public comment on the proposed changes. Today, Thursday, April 30, is the last day for the public to comment. If approved the new eligibility requirements would not be implemented until September, 1992.

Ms. French was one of several special-education administrators on a panel last summer who discussed how the proposed changes in eligibility should be handled. Screening and early intervention, key aspects of the 1974 legislation, would not change. In fact, mainstreaming more special-education students into regular classrooms, a goal in Andover for many years, she said, would result from these changes.

"There are some who view (special-education students) as an extra burden when they are mainstreamed into regular education classrooms. But it is truly all of our responsibility to give these youngsters the opportunities the other students have," Ms. French said.

Even though the thrust of the proposal is to more clearly define what special education is, many parents are worried that the behavioral problems some students exhibit due to the frustration they feel when they aren't succeeding at the pace of their regular education peers, could be incorrectly labeled as a behavioral problem that would jeopardize their child's chances for receiving needed help.

"Sometimes it's easier to get services for a child who is a behavioral problem," said Betsy Wish, 6 Penbrook Circle, former chairwoman of the 766 Parents Advisory Council.

"The child who sits quietly in the corner and continues to fail because he can't keep up with the class is often ignored until it is too late," she said.

Although Ms. Wish recognizes the aim is to weed out those students solely placed in special-education classes because of discipline problems and to save money by reducing the number of students in special education, she believes better mainstreaming programs can achieve that goal.

"Teacher training doesn't have to cost a lot of money. There are a lot of people in this school system who are achieving great things in their classrooms. They are wonderful resources that I don't think are fully utilized," she said.

Jean Seero, 215 High Plain Road, co-chairwoman of this year's 766 PAC, said she is worried that the children on the fringe, those with moderate special needs, are the ones who will get short changed when officials look to cut spending.

"My child is on the borderline. With the extra (special education) help he is succeeding in regular-education classes. He's now on the honor roll and will take level-two classes at the high school next year," Mrs. Seero said.

Andover will spend $800,000 this year for 44 special-needs students who attend institutions outside the town.

Statewide, 17 percent of elementary and secondary-school students receive special-education services. Massachusetts has more special-education students on a percentage basis than the majority of other states in the nation.

The types of services can range from tutoring to separate, special-education classroom teaching mixed with mainstreaming into regular-education classrooms, to completely separate classrooms within the town's eight public schools or placement outside the town to private facilities.

About 675 school-age children in Andover receive special-education services this year, said Ms. French. That includes 44 students who attend programs outside the town's public schools.

Andover will spend approximately $800,000 this year to provide special education outside the town's public school system for those 44 students. Under the proposed changes these students would not be affected because their education plans clearly define their needs well within the eligibility criteria, said Ms. French.

Douglas Dunbar, 2nd place adult:
While on vacation in Lancaster, N.H., Mr. Dunbar caught his granddaughter, Erin, enjoying the view of Spectacle Pond with her dog, Bear, by her side.

Jacki Bologna, honorable mention, adult:
After a long day of picture taking in The Park, Ms. Bologna's last shot became her favorite as she caught her niece, Rachel, napping.

Lauren Chabot, 2nd place child:
Lauren, 11, enjoys the New Mexico balloon fiesta each year with her mom. This shot is about as close as she'll get to flying.

On the cover...

Mark White, 1st place, adult:
Mr. White vacations in northern Maine whenever he gets the chance. His last visit won him top prize with the deer in the stream on the section cover.

Kurt Landry, 1st place, child:
Kurt, 7, and his father have a passion for the circus, so it's only natural that he submitted a shot of elephants. The winning shot is on the section cover.

Christopher Heil, honorable mention, adult:
When Mr. Heil's daughter, Lea, started making this face on her own, it became contagious, as his wife, Sunnie, demonstrates. Getting it on film was the easy part; getting her to stop was the hard part.

Deborah A. Siller, 3rd place, child:
Deborah's view of Montezuma's castle in Arizona's Camp Verde shows an eye for detail and for composition. She is 11 years old.

Eliot Tucker, 3rd place adult:
On a crystal clear winter day last year, Mr. Tucker went looking for textures and colors to photograph and found this combination in his back yard.

Ruth Henderson, honorable mention adult:
Ms. Henderson, who was unavailable for a headshot of herself, took this shot while vacationing in Utah.

Steve Anderson, honorable mention, adult:
While on a mule pack trip through the Sierra Nevada Mountains, Mr. Anderson only needed to open his tent flap for this scenic shot.

Crawford Sinkinson, honorable mention, child:
Crawford, 8 1/2, captured the real Jilly with this shot of his pet Golden Retriever.
